LANSING "DRINKING LOBBY" DENOUNCED

NAMES ADDED IN PREFERRED MORGAN LIST

WHITNEY OUTLINES UTILITY HOLDING COMPANY

BY WILLIAM L. BEALE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 31 (AP)—More ramifications of J. P. Morgan & Company financing dug out by senate investigators today lengthened the list of prominent persons to whom the big banking firm opened opportunities of one-time paper profits exceeding $20,000,000.

"Shares in the risk of underwriting" was the persistent designation given these customers by George Whitney, a member of the firm, who spent most of the day outlining organization of the United Corporation, a Morgan utility holding group, while the head of the Morgan company sat quietly by.

Sold at Cost

Repeatedly Whitney objected to describing as "preferred" or "favored" those clients to whom stock was sold at cost prices—prices much below market quotations of a few days later—despite senatorial proddings into public connections of the buyers and just what the "risk" was.

The banking committee members found one of its own members—Senator Hamilton Kean (R-N. J.)—on the list of those who were sold for $75 units of United stock that were quoted just a little later on the market at $99.

Kean's firm of Kean, Taylor & company got 500 units. Senator McAdoo (D-Calif.), also appeared on this third list of customers as the purchaser of 250 units, each unit consisting of one share of preferred an done share of common. McAdoo also had been among cost-price customers of Alleghany Corporation and Standard Brands, Inc. Both of McAdoo's transactions were before he went into the senate.

Many Notables

Committee investigators said also that when the United customers of Drexel & company, Morgan's Philadelphia affiliate, are put into the record tomorrow, the name of Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court will appear again.

Both of his transactions were before he went on the supreme bench.

William H. Woodin's name appeared another time on the newest Morgan list, as did those of Norman H. Davis, special envoy to Europe, John J. Raskob, General John J. Pershing and John W. Davis, counsel for Morgan. The sales were made before Woodin became secretary of the treasury.

Railroad Employes Given Protection Under Coordinator

Washington, May 31. (AP)—The administration put its support behind the labor retention amendment to the railroad coordinator bill today and the agreement was expected to hasten the legislation through congress.

After a White House conference, Chairman Rayburn of the house commerce committee said his committee would attach the amendment to the administration bill tomorrow.

The proposal, added by the senate, would bar the railroad coordinator from discharging employees now on the payrolls of the carriers.

Nation Gets New Boss of Money Bags

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Gold, silver, currency, securities—close to $15,000,000,000 of it—will change custodians in the United States treasury tomorrow when William A. Julian of Cincinnati, succeeds Walter O. Woods, as treasurer of the United States.

A committee appointed by the outgoing and incoming treasuries will supervise the transfer of the largest single account in the country. If they should attempt to count each gold or silver piece, each note or security, it would take a year or longer to make the transfer.

Postal savings collateral alone amounts to more than $1,000,000,000.

Under seal in the vaults of the treasury is about $10,000,000 in gold and in other vaults are 48,000,000 silver dollars. The metal is in bags of $1,000 each and every one sealed by an auditor who vouches for the accuracy of the count.

The treasury is responsible only for the gold and silver actually under his care and the larger part of the government's gold is kept in the New York assay office, the Philadelphia, San Francisco and Denver mints.

FEDERAL GIFTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Michigan Is Allotted $3,915,107 on 1-3 Basis

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The federal relief administration expects the states to make substantial appropriations for relief within their borders in the belief that they should get along with federal assistance equalling one-third of their own expenditures.

This statement was made today by Harry L. Hopkins, the federal relief administrator, in announcing gifts on the one-to-three basis to Pennsylvania, Michigan and Georgia. The amounts allotted to these three states comes from the recently created $500,000,000 fund. They were $4,547,913 to Pennsylvania, $3,915,107 to Michigan, and $57,895 to Georgia.

Hopkins said the money allotted must be spread over a considerable period. The allotments for the second quarter based on expenditures of public moneys during April, May and June will be due in July but there will be no allotments between July and October.

The $500,000,000 fund is divided into two parts—$250,000,000 to be allotted on the one-to-three basis, and $250,000,000 to be distributed after October 1 on the basis of need.

(AP)—Five men charged with automobile banditry, robbery while armed and kidnaping in connection with the robbery of the Exchange Bank at Culver Monday were taken to state prison at Michigan City tonight following an appearance before Judge Albert Chipman in Marshall circuit court here this afternoon.

Officers said they would be held at the state prison to prevent possible liberation attempts.

PROTEST WILL GET RESULTS FOR DISABLED

PENSIONS REVISED: JULY REDUCTION CANCELED

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Numerous protests at the bite taken out of veterans benefits by the national economy act brought Democratic leaders to the defense of the president in the senate today with an appeal to opponents to aid him in correcting injustices in regulations.

Despite demands for repeal of the act or at least limitations on reductions, Democrats in charge of the $543,000,000 independent offices bill—which cuts almost in half current appropriations for veterans—predicted its passage tomorrow with perhaps a few liberalizing amendments.

Hospital Fund Boosted

One such amendment was approved today—that of Senator Black (D-Ala) boosting the hospital fund by $1,000,000 for treatment of disabled former service men who cannot trace their injuries to service.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), in charge of the bill, reiterated today that the president had ordered revisions upward in the combat-wounded compensations and was selecting a committee to visit hospitals and report any injustices.

He said there was a chance for adopting amendments by Senator Cutting (R-NM) limiting cuts for service-connected injuries to 25 per cent and by Senator Dill (D-Wash) making the same limit on reductions in pensions of Spanish War veterans over 62, but said that under the procedure a two-thirds vote would be required.

Defends President

Rising to a vigorous defense of the president late in the day, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, assailed Senator Dickson (R-Ia) for calling Mr. Roosevelt responsible for the "injustices" complained of, and Senator Robinson (R-Ind) for asserting the economy bill was sent to congress by the president with a "false label—to maintain the credit of the government."

"Before changes have gone into effect," the Arkansan said, "senators find peculiar gratification in denouncing the president for a fearless discharge of his duty, or an attempt to perform the functions of his offices consistently with the laws enacted by the congress.

"The president is working now, doing his best sincerely and conscientiously to give effect to the will of the congress, and instead of wasting time in denouncing him, we who did not have the courage to perform the legislative functions necessary to bring the expenses of the government within the revenues ought to stand by and give the president support, and assist him in working out the defects in the rules and regulations which have been adopted."

"False Pretenses"

The majority leader added that when the economy bill was sent up the credit of the government was "seriously threatened" and congress was continuing to "pile up additional expenditures."

Robinson of Indiana replied that "congress never began to think of piling up obligations for the government anywhere near the extent the president has piled them up during the past three

Ann Arbor Railway Denied R. F. C. Loan

Washington, D. C., May 31 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today denied the application of receivers for the Ann Arbor Railroad company for a loan of $365,243 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The loan was sought as a means of paying interest on the line's underlying mortgage, and principal and interest on the first mortgage on the Ann Arbor Boat Co., a subsidiary not involved in the receivership.

The commission held that the earning powers of the receivers and the security offered was not such as to afford reasonable assurance of ability to repay the loan.

Guardian Asked For Reed Child

Detroit, May 31. (AP)—Hearing on a petition for the appointment of a guardian for Ilene Reed, five adopted daughter of George D. Reed, former Detroit fireman, is scheduled in probate court for tomorrow. Reed is serving a life sentence in Marquette prison following his plea of guilty to the slaying of his divorced wife, Ruth, on May 4 near Ann Arbor.

Principals in Kansas Prison Break

Instructions of "shoot to kill" were issued yesterday by Warden Kirk Prather, top photo, of the Kansas State penitentiary in the manhunt for 11 convicts who made a break for liberty Memorial Day. The warden was taken along as hostage, but later released. Below, left, is M. J. Wood, whose car was commandeered by the fugitives who took his wife, daughter and a girl friend with them as captives, freeing them Tuesday night. The leader of the escaped convicts, lower right, is Harvey J. Bailey, former Chicago gangster, who was a suspect in the St. Valentine's Day massacre.

WORLD TRADE ENVOYS WILL SPEED ACTION

GROUP PROMISES AGREEMENT BY AUGUST

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

Aboard S S President Roosevelt with American Delegation to London Economic Coference, May 31 (AP)—A determination to reach an international agreement by early August was expressed today by members of the American delegation to the world monetary and economic conference as they sailed for London.

"Our delegation naturally is keeping expressly in mind the purposes expressed by the president a number of times, to the effect that it is earnestly hoped the London economic conference will bel able to conclude its work within eight weeks," said Secretary of State Hull, delegation chairman.

Crisis Urgent

"Especially we hope this, as it relates to a program dealing with the fundamentals of the economic situation. The crisis in all countries is sufficiently great and urgent to make six or eight weeks of conference extremely imperative, rather than a long drawn out one."

Sailing on the President Roosevelt with Secretary Hull were three other delegates, Ralph W. Morrison of San Antonio, Tex., Senator Key Pittman of Nevada and Rep. S. D. McReynolds of Tennesee, together with 43 advisers and stenographers and 13 relatives.

Couzens Leaves Later

The remaining two delegates—former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, and Senator James Couzens of Michigan—will take later boats, but will reach London before the conference opens on June 12.

"We ought to get an agreement regardless of the time it takes," said Secretary Hull in an

600 Millions Farm Credit Is Available

Washington, May 31. (AP)—The Roosevelt bill putting $600,000,000 in federal farm credit facilities under the direction of one man was passed by the house today in record time and sent to the senate where speedy action was forecast.

Without even a standing vote, and with no more than 200 of the 435 members present at any one time, the house accepted the "farm credit act of 1933" as it came from the agriculture committee.

Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee said the bill was offered simply for the purpose of "breathing life into" the farm credit administration already established by executive order of the president.

It carries $122,000,000 for the new system, and Jones estimated that if full advantage were taken of the opportunities $600,000,000 in credit would be available to farmers.

Under the bill, two new banking systems are to be set up. One will handle loans to cooperatives, the other loans to local production credit associations. Each of these branches will have 12 regional banks.

FLINT SUSPECT STILL MISSING

Peninsula Officers Told to Watch Roads for Two Youths

Flint, Mich., May 31 (AP)—To the police of Flint and a score of midwest cities, young Balfe MacDonald, sought as a suspect in the brutal slaying of his socially-prominent widowed mother, tonight was as much a will-of-the-wisp as he was the day he and a companion disappeared from their homes here.

While the funeral of the mother, Mrs. Grace B. MacDonald, was being held today from the Crescent Drive family home, police in a half dozen localities were dashing to various sections where excited citizens reported discovery of "a young man who looks like the MacDonald boy." Each time, however, the clue proved futile, and the authorities were no nearer the end of their hunt than ever.

Balfe, 17 year old youth who, friends of the family have testified, was "wild and irresponsible," disappeared Saturday morning about the time his mother was found slain, her head beaten in with a pair of heavy book ends. William Terwilliger, 16, an inseparable companion, disappeared with Balfe. A purse which had contained $400 was found opened and empty.

Bank Reorganization Plans Are Discussed

Lansing, Mich., May 31. (AP)—Howard P. Preston, deputy governor of the seventh federal reserve district, arrived here from Chicago this afternoon for a series of conferences with R. E. Reichert, state banking commissioner.

Following the first meeting Reichert said Preston will be here for several days. He said the federal reserve official came here, at his own suggestion, to "look into the general Michigan picture and discuss plans for bank reorganizations."

Governor Comstock Backs Up Groesbeck

Detroit, May 31. (AP)—The recently-revived controversy over Michigan's banking holiday, headed by the charge from former Governor Alex J. Groesbeck that public officials had "bungled" in the closing order, tonight met with no argument from Governor William A. Comstock.

The governor in Lansing said that Groesbeck's statement declaring the federal government responsible for the closing of two Detroit banks, as well as other comments on the state banking situation, "may be taken as authentic."

SENATE SALES TAX OPPOSED BY GOVERNOR

SMALL LOAN RATE CUT DEFEATED 18 TO 10

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, May 31 (AP)—The senate taxation committee today ignored the recommendations of Governor Comstock and reported favorably a three per cent sales tax bill.

The measure, in the form it reached the floor, was estimated by the governor as promising a yield of not more than $29,000,000.

Fatal to Treasury

"We need at least $46,000,000," the governor said. "I cannot understand the thought of the committee. It appears the lobbyists, who have axes to grind, have convinced some members that the interests they represent should not be taxed. While I do not plan on vetoing any revenue measure, I certainly will take action of some sort if a bill which will not produce the necessary funds is passed. The measure reported by the senate committee would simply increase the state deficit, break the treasury and disrupt essential governmental functions."

The bill released by the committee, and which seemed to find favor with senators, provided for a three per cent levy on retail sales and utility services except telephone. The tax would become effective June 30. Farm products, as well as gasoline, would be taxed. There would be a base exemption of $600. All retail establishments would pay a license fee of $1 a year. A collecting agency would be set up in the form of a state board of tax adminstration, composed of the state treasurer, auditor general and secretary of state.

Money for Schools

The bill carried an appropriation of $15,000,000 for school aid, which was in line with administration plans. It also proposed appropriations of $550,000 for the University of Michigan and $200,000 for Michigan State college.

Earlier in the day Governor Comstock had vigorously attacked the reported activities of lobbyists and had requested all members of the state administrative board to cooperate with him in seeking to push through a "suitable bill."

The governor favored passage by the senate of the original administration sales and gross income tax. It was approved by the house some time ago. It provided for a three per cent tax on sales, and a three per cent levy on the gross income of all utility and professional services. It likewise carried a three-tenths of one per cent tax on manufactured products and two-tenths of one per cent on mining and timber.

Scores "Third House"

The senate committee struck out the gross income provision, the tax on professional services, and the levy against manufactured articles and mining and timber.

The governor, when he called upon the administrative board for assistance, apparently was highly displeased.

He said:

"Evidently the so-called third house, that is the lobbyists, have convinced some members of the committee that this bill will be adequate and have upset the program. They evidently have accepted the theory that Fenner and Lovett and the rest of them (Clyde Fenner representing the Home Defense League, and John L. Lovett of the Michigan Manufacturers association) know how to figure revenue better than those who make a business of such figuring. The University of Michigan men who drafted this bill have no axe to grind. These other gentlemen have a very definite axe.

"If this revenue bill is passed

Cherry Districts Ask Federal Loan

Lansing, May 31 (AP)—A state or federal loan of $200,000 to $300,000 to finance the harvesting of a bumper crop in the Grand Traverse region was requested today by independent cherry packers.

The petition declared that unless financial aid is granted the price of the crop may go down and difficulty be encountered in harvesting. It was claimed 10,000 pickers, 2,500 growers and 1,500 canning factory employes would be affected.

Kansas Convicts Free Captives But Evade Posse in "Bad Lands"

LOWER POSTAL RATES COMING

Gasoline Tax Cotninued; Electrical Levy Goes to Producers

Washington, May 31 (AP)—An agreement by house and senate conferees to transfer the three percent electricity levy from the consumer to the producer today brought the gasoline tax and postal reduction measure within sight of the White House.

Breaking a three-weeks deadlock, the senate conferees receded from their demand for a two per cent tax on producers and a one percent levy on industrial consumers.

Besides being designed to bring in $138,000,000 in revenue by extending the one cent a gallon gasoline tax a year from June 30, the bill grants authority to President Roosevelt to increase or decrease all postage rates within certain limits.

If the volume of mail increases, due to a reduction he may make from three to two cents on drop letters, the president is empowered to reduce the rate throughout the country to two cents. In addition, he may reduce air mail rates, and increase second, third and fourth class rates.

POPE HAS BIRTHDAY

Vatican City, May 31 (AP)—Pope Pius today celebrated his 76th birthday by receiving hundreds of pilgrims who had come to Vatican City in celebration of holy year.

Capone Freedom Plea Is Denied

New Orleans, May 31 (AP)—Al Capone's plea for freedom on habeas corpus from the Atlanta penitentiary where he is serving ten years for evading income taxes, was denied today by the United States circuit court of appeals here which upheld a decision of the Atlanta district court.

Lansing, Kan., May 31 (AP)—Leaving a policeman dead along the trail of their flight, the eleven desperadoes who escaped yesterday from the Kansas penitentiary had vanished tonight in the hill country of northeastern Oklahoma—long an outlaw retreat.

Posses hunted the timbered "bad lands" without avail. A police net was extended in a wide circle through Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas on the theory that the convicts might make a dash for distant parts.

Fugitives Armed

Squads of police and sheriff's deputies guarded highways. They were heavily armed and ready to "shoot to kill" if they encountered the fugitives. The convicts were well supplied themselves with rifles, shotguns and pistols.

Otto L. Durke, 42, night policeman and a World War veteran, was shot down early today at Chetopa, Kans., authorities expressed the belief that he had run afoul of one of the two parties of convicts.

Chetopa is only 15 miles from Welch, Okla., near where Wilbur Underhill and Harvey Bailey, leaders of the prison break, with four other convicts last night released Warden Kirk Prather and Guards L. A. Laws and John Sherman, who were kidnaped from the prison and taken on a wild automobile ride.

Women Back Home

After a harrowing experience as captives of the other five convicts who fled in a separate group, Mrs. M. J. Wood, her 17-year-old daughter, Louise, and Miss Cloris Wears, 17, returned unharmed today to their homes in Kansas City, Kans.

They were freed last night at a farm house near Pleasanton, Kans., 100 miles southeast of

LIFERS KIDNAP GUARD, ESCAPE

Oklahoma Penitentiary Scene of Latest Prison Break

McAlster, Okla., May 31 (AP)—Two prisoners serving life sentences for murder escaped from the Oklahoma penitentiary here late today after kidniping Tom Baskin, a guard, and taking his gun and car. Baskin later was thrown from the car. He was not seriously injured.

Warden Sam Brown said Jim Stribling, an Indian, convicted of murder in Carter county in March, 1926, and H. C. Bradbury, convicted of murder in Oklahoma county in 1930, were the two who escaped.

He said Stribling and Bradbury, mechanics, had been taken by the guard ouside the prison walls on the way to the women's ward, where they were to repair machinery.

The convicts suddenly seized Baskin, struck him on the head, took his car and gun and, using him as a shield, drove past the prison brick plant and into the open highway.

CAR CONFISCATED

Joplin, Mo., May 31 (AP)—Two hitch-hikers, who said they were fugitive convicts from the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing, held up B. K. Blair of Joplin and a young woman companion on a highway south of Joplin tonight, and confiscated Blair's car. The two sped eastward on Highway 60 toward Springfield, Mo.

Mattern Ready For Solo Flight To Circle Globe

New York, May 31 (AP)—Favorable winds along the great circle air route to Europe tonight gave promise that Jimmy Mattern could start at dawn tomorrow on his solo flight around the world.

There is little prospect that the present inclement weather over the route will abate, forecasters said, but Mattern will fly blind and he said he would brave rain and snow if he can get a strong wind behind him.

He will fly to Harbor Grace, N. F., but only to get his bearings, and head straight across the sea without stopping there. His maximum cruising radius is 4,000 miles.

FUND AVAILABLE TO BUILD CANAL

St. Lawrence Project Awaits Action by U. S. Senate

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Members of congress have been informed that the St. Lawrence canal may be constructed from the $3,300,000,000 fund in the public works bill if the treaty with Canada is ratified by the senate.

Budget Director Douglas has agreed that the St. Lawrence river project, which would cost the United States about $278,000,000 for its share, could come within the terms of the bill. Of the total, $89,000,000 is to be paid by the state of New York.

Has House Approval

Douglas made it clear, however, that this was subject to ratification of the treaty and other conditions, including the senate approval of the agreement between New York state and the federal government on the cost of the project. This already has been approved by the house.

As outlined by Douglas, $2,400,000,000 is to be expended on other than federal projects, an investigation having disclosed state, municipal and county projects could provide more employment than federal projects.

Besides the $400,000,000 to be given the states for construction of highways, $1,400,000,000 is to be loaned and $600,000,000 is to be given outright for state, city and county projects.

Many Possibilities

The balance of the fund of $900,000,000 is to be expended on federal works, including construction of naval vessels, army housing and equipment, public buildings, improvement of rivers and harbors, flood control, soil and coastal erosion.

Douglas said that "every imaginable type of project publicly owned or constructed with public aid" would come within the provisions of the measure.

These include hydro-electric or other power plants for municipalities, as well as slum clearances, the construction of reservoirs and other projects.

The money is to be advanced on the basis of 30 per cent in outright grants and 70 per cent in loans.

Speaker Bradley's Council Measure Passes In House

Lansing, Mich., May 31 (AP)—The house tonight passed and sent to the senate Speaker Martin Bradley's bill providing for a legislative council to function between sessions and draft a program of legislation. Amendments were added to the bill authorizing the council to study state costs and recommend economy measures.

The Watson bill repealing the mandatory life sentence for fourth offenders and giving courts greater discretion under the habitual criminal act, was passed and sent to the senate.

Rep. Philip Pack, Republican, Ann Arbor, introduced a bill repealing an old local act and placing Menominee county road commission under control of the board of supervisors.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 31 (AP)—A warrant charging negligent homicide was issued today for Owen B. Bradshaw, 18, of Flint, driver of the motor car which crashed into a telephone pole near here early Monday, fatally injuring Frank Dalrymple, 18, of this city, who was a passenger. Bradshaw will be arraigned tomorrow.

Kansas Convicts Free Captives, Elude Officers

Lansing, but [illegible] the telephone lines at the house had been cut did not report their safety until this morning.

Warden Prather returned to the prison today and prepared to turn the office over tonight to his successor, Lacey Simpson, who was appointed recently under the new state administration.

Investigation Ordered

At the direction of Governor Alf M. Landon, the state board of administration began a searching investigation at the penitentiary.

"I want to know whether there were any violations of the rules, a breakdown or laxity in discipline; how those weapons got into the prison and how the men got out after the difficulties within the prison walls," the governor said.

Indications were that the second group of fugitives fled south into Oklahoma after releasing the women. They were some hours behind the band which held the warden prisoner.

Authorities advanced the theory that one gang or the other encountered Policeman Durke at Chetopa and a gun fight ensued at 3 a. m. while an attempt was being made to steal a needed tire from a shop owned by Roy James. The body of Durke was found at the rear of the shop. His pistol was empty, having been fired six times.

Rob Station Owner

Warden Prather said his captors had developed tire trouble near Welch, Okla.

The hunt for the Underhill-Bailey gang, considered the most desperate, was pressed in the mining district around Miami, Okla., this morning after Jeff Weatherby, a filling station owner reported he had been robbed of a few dollars by four men, who forced him to accompany them to a point south of Miami where he was released. He said Underhill was one of the men. Underhill's wife lives at Picher, Okla., nearby.

No trace of the men was found, however, and authorities expressed the belief that the convicts had fled westward into the Spavinaw hills, a wild section of Craig county.

It was believed that Bailey, badly wounded in the leg by a bullet from a guard's rifle at the prison, had been left with a companion at some hideout. Miami police feared that some doctor might be kidnaped to treat Bailey.

Smuggled Arms

Warden Prather said the convicts told him the firearms used in the break had been smuggled into the prison in bales of sisal, used in making twine. Six new .38 automatic pistols had been smuggled.

"We are lucky to be here now," said Prather as he embraced his wife. "It looked several times as though they would do away with us."

The warden said he ordered a tower gate opened, giving the convicts access to the top of the prison wall—from which they slid down a rope to freedom—to prevent a "massacre" of the fourteen guards who were covered with pistols.

These guards and the warden, overpowered during a baseball game, had no firearms.

Bailey Cool

The warden gave the order when Underhill instructed his companions to kill Peter Kley, a tower guard, who refused to throw down his gun.

"I decided then," said Prather, "that it would be wiser to obey than see my men slain."

Prather and the guards said they believed they owed their lives to Bailey, who directed the gang as soon as they left the prison. Underhill led the break inside the penitentiary.

"Underhill was yellow—he wanted to shoot to kill," Laws said. "He was spoiling for a gunfight. Bailey, Bog Brady, and Ed Davis, all life termers, were brave and cool. I give them credit, especially Bailey. Underhill sat with an automatic cocked and pointed against the warden all the way. He wanted to kill us just to get rid of us."

Captives Unharmed

Laws said Warden Prather "saved our lives" by complying with the demands of the convicts.

Three killings are charged against Underhill, the last one the slaying of a policeman at Wichita, Kas., for which he was serving life.

Bailey, convicted of participation in a Fort Scott, Kas., bank robbery, has a long criminal record and was a suspect in the St. Valentine's day gang massacre in Chicago.

The convicts who kidnaped the women on a highway and commandeered their car were all young. They took advantage of the break by the other six men to escape themselves. They are Lewis Betchel, Alvis Peyton, Kenneth Conn, Billy Woods and Clifford Dopson.

"I am still scared," Miss Wood said today. "I started being scared when I saw those guns yesterday and I haven't stopped yet. The five men treated use nicely, though, and didn't harm us in any way."

Sino-Japanese Treaty Signed

Tientsin, China, May 31 (AP)—A formal agreement between Chinese and Japanese military authorities presumably ending hostilities south of the great wall was signed today at Tangku, a seacoast town just north of Tientsin.

According to the Japansee version of the agreement, which they call a "treaty," the outstanding result is the establishment of a demilitarized zone from the great wall southwards to an east-and-west line running a short distance north of Tientsin and Peiping and thence northwestward to the wall.

Young Brother Of Bill Dickey Has Eye On Big Show

Wheeling, W. Va., (AP)—New York Yankee fans may look forward to seeing a member of the Dickey family in their line-up for quite a few years to come.

When Bill Dickey, the champions' current backstop, reaches the point where he no longer can carry the burden, his younger brother, George, firmly intends to take over the assignment.

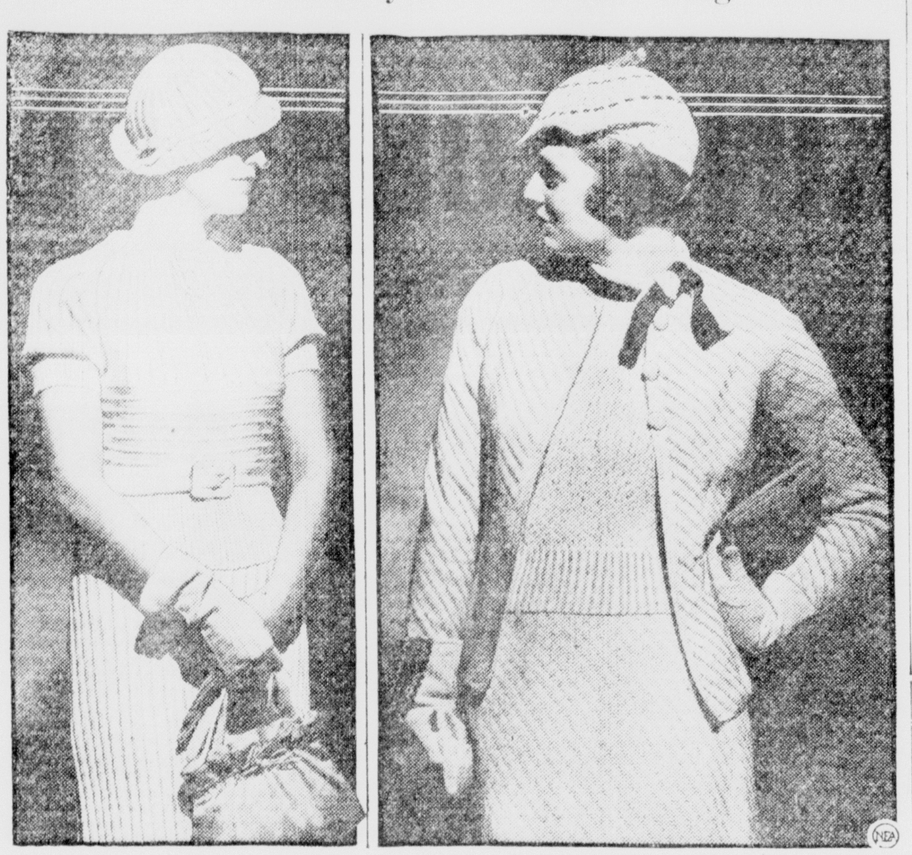
At 17, George is doing a bang-up job of catching and hitting for the Wheeling club of the Middle-Atlantic league, one of the Yankees' numerous "farms." He expects to be up with the parent club in a couple more seasons. All he needs, say the experts, is a little more experience.

In a way, George has been a member of the Yankees ever since he was 13. Four years ago he left home at Little Rock, Ark., went up to St. Louis where the Yanks were appearing and "joined" the team.

He's been with them, off and on, ever since, catching for fielding practice before the games and warming up the pitchers. He put in two full months of training down at St. Petersburg this spring and appeared in exhibition games until the start of the regular campaign.

Like his older brother, George is angular for a catcher. He stands 6 feet, 3 inches, and he puts a powerful amount of body behind his swings.

Tie Into Style With Cotton String



(From Saks Fifth Avenue, New York)

Cotton string knitted things take precedence over all other types of sports things for chic this summer. A neat little, sweet little two-piece pale pink sports suit (left) knitted of cotton string is a honey for summer days. The skirt has slenderizing lines, by its ribbed knit. The blouse has the cutest little puffed sleeves and the new bag neckline that pulls up and then the string ties in a bow. For the sports gal who likes her things tailored, here (right) is a three-piece knitted suit of cotton string, in a heavenly mellow yellow. The skirt and short jacket are a diagonal lacy weave, the round necked pullover sweater another lacy stitch. The scarf has a touch of brown in it. So has the pert hat. The imported crocheted gloves have brown stitchings in them.

HUGH JOHNSON HAS BIG TASK

New Czar of Industry Conducted Draft in World War

BY KIRKE SIMPSON

Washington—If Hugh Johnson attempts the role of industrial czar to make effective the presidential idea of a new partnership between government and business, it will be the second time he has had to do with vast affairs intimately touching the lives of untold numbers of Americans.

For, as executive officer under Provost Marshal General Crowder during the world war, he supervised the planning of the draft machinery and put it into operation.

More than 10 million Americans were enrolled and classified for service under the plans with which Johnson had so much to do. That makes the matter of directing a three billion dollar government attempt to get the nation back on its industrial feet pale into insignificance so far as human values involved are concerned.

Ideas Lead to Work

President Roosevelt has a way of picking on folks who enthusiastically suggest new plans to put their ideas into shape and then into operation.

He did that in connection with youthful Lewis Douglas of Arizona when he hailed him out of the house not only to direct the budget bureau but to become presidential right-hand man in many another way. And it was Johnson and Douglas who hammered the re-employment measure into shape.

Quite likely it was Douglas who urged Johnson to administer the great experiment.

As a reward for merit during the war, Johnson not only was booster to a brigadier general's rank but given his pick of commands after the draft machinery was working smoothly. He selected a brigade of the 8th division regulars, organized on the west coast and on its way to France as part of a new shock troop force in the making when the armistice ended hostilities.

Business More Exciting

After the war General Johnson found army life too tame to his liking. Also, the same capacity for organization and planning that made him a marked man as a soldier and driving force in the draft organization had attracted much attention outside military circles. So he turned business man.

If Johnson now takes over the vast new job offered him he will become a virtual cabinet member-at-large, like Douglas. And there is no telling where that might take him. Perhaps some day he'll add "politician" to the "soldier, lawyer and manufacturer" phrase now used to describe his eventful life.

PENSION CUT; SUICIDES

Benton Harbor, May 31 (AP)—Relatives reported Wednesday that Joseph Schwab, 57, had ended his life Sunday because of despondency over a year of unemployment and the reduction of his pension as a Spanish-American war veteran. His body, they said was not discovered until Tuesday at his home here, when neighbors detected the odor of illuminating gas.

months he has been in office and God knows how much he will pile up in another three years and nine months."

Vandenberg (R-Mich) said his vote for the economy law was obtained "under false pretenses and under promises that have been violated and nullified."

"If you don't correct these outrages you will find an aroused public that will sweep all these economy laws off the books," he asserted.

Many senators told of letters they had received from veterans protesting the cuts announced to become effective July 1.

Senator Copeland (D-NY) told how a veteran who "almost died" in his office had been reduced from $50 to $8 a month, while Senator Reed (R-PA) said he knew of a man who lost one leg in the Argonne and suffered other injuries being cut from $100 to $40.

Reviews Ordered

Opposing recall of the authority given the president, Byrns said the cuts announced for July 1 would not go into effect, that they were being revised upward at the direction of the president.

In addition, he said the president was appointing a committee to visit hospitals throughout the country and report any injustices. This committee, he added, would be instructed to see that all available beds were utilized.

He said the president also had ordered a review of presumptive cases to prevent any veteran being moved from service-connected injury lists "by a presumption."

"It would be futile to put new money into the bill until these reviews are made," Byrnes said, adding sufficient appropriations were included to care for any increases the president might determine upon for the first half of the new fiscal year.

If further funds were needed, he said, these could be appropriated at the next regular session of congress.

Ban On Boycotts Needed For Peace

New York, May 31. (AP)—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Japan's principal delegate to the London economic conference, said today the covenant of the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact would be "ineffectual" instruments for world peace unless amended to forbid treaty-breaking economic boycotts.

The covenant must place economic boycotts on the same plane as military aggression, asserted the veteran diplomat at a luncheon given by Consul General Kensuke Horinouchi.

MATE FIGURES IN FISTICUFFS

C. Harold Wescoat One of Witnesses in Cox Wreck Inquiry

Houghton, Mich., May 31 (AP)—Taking of testimony in the investigation of the wrecking of the steamer George M. Cox was concluded here about 9:30 o'clock tonight. All officers and members of the ship's crew as well as most of her 32 passengers were called as witness.

The duty of fixing the responsibility for the wreck rests upon Captain John A. Hansen and Alfred G. Knights, of Marquette, U. S. steamboat inspectors for this district.

Testimony that First Officer Arthur Kronk, of the ill-fated steamer, which went aground off Rock of Ages lighthouse last Saturday afternoon, deserted his post and was one of the first men to leave the wrecked steamer was presented today at the federal inquiry. Captain F. J. Meno, of Detroit, supervising inspector for the eighth district who arrived in Houghton Wednesday evening, participated in the investigation and took an active part in the questioning of witness.

Cries on Stand

In all of his testimony First Mate Kronk, who testified Tuesday and as recalled for further questioning today, stated emphatically that he remained at his post until the very last and that he assisted in lowering and loading lifeboats before leaving the ship and departing for shore with 17 women in his boat.

While being requestioned by the inspectors this afternoon, Mr. Kronk created some commotion when he broke down and cried, and, slamming his fist down on a desk, shouted that he was being "framed by a dirty bunch of crooks—"

Kronk also reiterated his testimony of the previous day that he did not change the course of the Cox while in command between Portage Lake ship canal and the time he turned the wheel over to Captain George E. Johnson, master.

Uses Fists

The chief mate also engaged in another incident arising from the inquiry this noon when he engaged in a fistic encounter with Captain M. L. Gilbert, vice-president and general manager of the Isle Royale Transit company, owner of the Cox, in the lobby of the hotel where the inquiry is being conducted. Kronk claimed that members of the crew were lying about him and Captain Gilbert retorted:

"If any one is lying, it is you."

With this Kronk made an attempt to strike Gilbert, but missed. Gilbert struck back, hitting Kronk on the right cheek. Other men in the lobby separated the two.

The most direct statement that Kronk had deserted his post was placed in the record of the investigation by Third Officer M. L. Gilbert, Jr., when he was relating, under oath, what happened after the steamer Cox went on the rocks.

Woman in Boat

Third Mate Gilbert's testimony relative to Mr. Kronk leaving the boat was corroborated in all or in part by John Nelson, Ludington, Wheelsman; A. B. Larsen, Brooklyn, N. Y., chief engineer; William O. Wilson, New York City, second assistant engineer; C. Harold Wescoat, Houghton, local agent for the Isle Royale Transit company; Miss Adeline Kieling, Manistee, Mich., nurse of the boat, and several other members of the crew.

When asked by the investigators what he found when he got on deck after the crash, Wheelsman John Nelson replied:

"I found Mr. Kronk at No. 4 boat and helped him get it into the water. A woman I don't know was in the boat. I asked Mr. Kronk to help with No. 2 boat and he said no. So I put it out myself. I put all the rations in and then lowered it down into the water one end at a time. I picked up 16 women and two children, and started to scully to shore. When I went by Kronk he asked me to help him and I told him he was big enough to take care of himself."

SENATE SALES TAX OPPOSED BY GOVERNOR

so it yields insufficient funds on theory that business will turn upward we may be in the same bad position we have been for the past two years. Many people have acted on the theory that there will be upswing in business before and have been disappointed.

"I cant' figure what has gotten into the senate to report a bill that obviously will fall short of requirements. I believe it is up to every member of the administrative board to get hold of members and convince them the budget must be balanced. Every one of us ought to watch this bill and help out in getting it through in proper form. I consider this one of the most serious things before the administration."

"WINED AND DINED"

Lansing, May 31 (AP)—The legislative effort to reduce the interest rates on small loans met its Waterloo in the senate today amid charges that liquor had been used as a lobbying tool.

Members by a vote of 18 to 10 defeated the amended Grajewski bill proposing a rate of 2½ per cent a month on loans up to $100 and one per cent on the next $200. The membership had previously rejected attempts to reduce the blanket rate from 3½ per cent to one per cent and 1½ per cent a month.

The issue brought one of the most bitter debates of the current session with Senator Edward B. McKenna, Democrat, Detroit, demanding that members of his party support a plank in the Democratic state platform advocating a one per cent rate. He charged that liquor had been dispensed by lobbyists in a Lansing hotel as a weapon against this bill. McKenna urged outright abolition of small loan companies.

"The issue is whether the senate is to act as an independent body or whether we are to be coerced and driven or filled up on liquor or wined and dined by those interested in passing or blocking legislation," he said.

Doyle Votes No

McKenna urged an investigation by the senate of lobbying tactics against the measure. He charged that liquor had been dispensed "from the orchid room of the Downey hotel, which is the suite now occupied by Francis L. Thompson, vice-president of the Household Finance Corporation." He said that "on the fifth floor even greater hospitality, good cheer, and choice beverages are dispensed by Constatine Daniels." Daniels is a lobbyist here for varied interests.

The Detroit senator claimed he 42 per cent annual rate represented the minimum interest charges levied by loan companies and that it ran as high as 67 per cent. "My district," he said, "cannot live with a 42 per cent handicap. It would be better off with a 100 per cent illegal loan shark than with a 42 per cent legal loan shark."

Referring to a recent characterization of the legislature in the Detroit city council as a "cash and carry" body, McKenna said he had been informed "and I believe it to be true, that many thousands of dollars have been spent against this bill."

The roll call on the bill was:

For—Senators Campbell, Case, Glasner, Kulp, Leidlein, Leland, Orr, Raymond, Reid and Town—10.

Against—Senators Cutler, Doyle, Flynn, Foster, Gorman, Heidkamp, Karwick, Lamoreaux, McKenna, Moore, Munshaw, Murphy, Niehczynski, Palmer, Ruff, Upjohn, Van Eenenaam and Wilkowski—18.

TARIFF CUTS ARE PROPOSED

League Experts Call for United Action by Nations

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY

Geneva (AP)—"Reduce your tariffs!" was one of the primal exhortations which League of Nations experts addressed to the world economic conference slated to meet at London on June 12.

Two Americans helped draw up the report which went to all governments as a suggested basis for the conference work. They were Edmund E. Day, director of social science for the Rockefeller foundation, New York, and John H. Williams, professor of economics at Harvard University.

Many Experts at Table

Other distinguished economists sat with the Americans at Geneva to draft the agenda, including experts from Germany, Belgium, Great Britain, France, China, Switzerland, Poland, Finland, Norway, the Netherlands, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

The International Labor organization here and the International Institute of Agriculture of Rome also were represented.

So far as tariff policy was concerned, the experts considered the object of the conference must be that of reaching a general agreement for scaling down present import duties and maintaining more moderate rates in the future.

Payment in Goods

The experts held that a marked improvement in the world economic situation would come if debtor countries were enabled to pay their debts by exporting goods and services and if creditor countries arranged their economic policies in such a way as to maintain the capacity of debtor countries to pay by these means.

The commission warned, however, that no country could afford to adopt a really liberal tariff policy if other countries generally persisted in the opposite policy. A lowering of tariffs could best be effected in successive stages, and should, so far as possible, be simultaneous, the experts said.

The prompt acceptance of President Roosevelt's proposal for a tariff truce was hailed here as a practical preliminary step toward this objective.

As to reduction itself, the commissioners recommended combining two methods: (1) the system of reduction by percentages; (2) the system of reduction to a uniform level. Reductions, they said, might be made by:

(1) A general agreement of the conference.

(2) A collective agreement of a group of governments.

(3) Bilateral negotiations.

(4) Autonomous action on the part of governments individually.

Agreements between two countries could not really be valuable, it was pointed out, unless the countries so acting were convinced that the majority of economically important nations were proceeding along similar lines.

Concerted Action Needed

The object of the conference was deemed, therefore, to be the negotiation of a tariff agreement on as comprehensive a scale as possible and the ideal would be a treaty signed by all countries.

A helpful half-way measure, it was said, would be signature of collective agreements between particular states, which would be open to the adhesion of all others.

The preparatory commission went on record as advocating the most-favored nation clause as the basis of commercial relations between nations under normal conditions. It believed the conference should agree on the scope of most-favored nation clauses, if not on their precise forms.

Stack For Governor In 1934! That's the Talk Around Lansing

JOHN K. STACK, JR.

John K. Stack Jr., auditor general, and Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer, are pointed out to be the coming leaders of the Democratic party in Michigan, in a news article, written by W. A. Markland, political writer of the Detroit News.

According to Markland, the well known Escanaba man is being discussed already as the party's standard bearer in 1934, in the event Governor Comstock decides to retire from public life.

Markland's story reads as follows:

When the Democrats went into office in January, Gov. Comstock was about the only real leader Michigan Democrats could claim. They searched the state from end to end and decided that if any Democrat was to be governor of Michigan it would have to be William A. Comstock. With the party back in power they were fairly sure that new leaders would develop. Now they are beginning to look about to take note of those emerging from political obscurity.

Two men already are beginning to stand out. They are John K. Stack, Jr., of Escanaba, auditor-general, and Theodore I. Fry, of Fremont, State treasurer. Gov. Comstock held out a long time before he consented to run last fall and he often has intimated since his election that one will be enough. Already Stack and Fry are being discussed as standard bearers in 1934.

Both Are Workers

These men are becoming political leaders largely because they have made no effort to do any leading. Neither could be classed as a politician. Neither had any idea he would be elected when he permitted his name to go on the ticket. Both are businessmen of standing, and when they were elected they dug into their new jobs in a businesslike way. If they have political ambitions they are well concealed. The place to find Stack and Fry is in their offices on the second floor of the capital. They are not to be found in the House or Senate chambers trying to direct the course of legislation. They are not prominent in party caucuses. There is every outward evidence that they are doing the best they can to operate their offices with the machinery at hand.

Stack is the more colorful figure of the two. He has position, education, courage and culture. He is refreshingly direct and independent in thought and action. He is scornful of precedent and careless of any personal or political consequences. He didn't want a political job this time and it is very evident that it will be all right with him if he never gets another. He is exactly the type of man who would be likely to capture the public imagination and the political preferment he scorns.

Made No Speeches

During the campaign he traveled the Upper Peninsula with Gov. Comstock for a week, and that was about the only campaigning he did. He thought his name and presence might help the Comstock candidacy. When he was introduced at campaign meetings he stood up and smiled—and never said a word.

Stack stepped into the limelight immediately after taking office by announcing that he would save the state a lot of money by refraining from publishing the 1930 delinquent tax descriptions. That wasn't what the law said, but it looked like common sense to him. He laughed at suggestions that he might go to jail, and stood pat. The legislature came to his rescue with the necessary legislation and his plan prevailed.

Fry, a country banker, is a more conservative type. He is a big, quiet man with a humorous glint in his gray-blue eyes. He makes friends slowly, but it is already apparent that he is going to have lots of them around Lansing.

The office of the state treasurer has not been a prolific source of news since Jan. 1, and it is entirely probable that this fact should be considered good news. Whether justified, or not, the impression is going abroad that Fry is doing a good job. Whether justified or not, the word is go-about that Stack and Fry are Gov. Comstock's strong men, and that is the way gubernatorial timber is grown.

Sewage Plant Site Will Be Beautified

Work of landscaping the grounds surrounding the new sewage treatment plant has been started on plans furnished by O. I. Gregg, landscape architect of Michigan State College, it was announced yesterday by City Manager T. F. Kessler.

Beautification of the site will be carried on gradually as time and labor are afforded, but when the program is completed it will greatly enhance the appearance of the plant.

Native trees and shrubs are being transplanted to the grounds. Directly in front of the office and laboratory building a grass lawn will be put in, water pipes having been already installed for sprinkling purposes.

Among the varieties of trees and shrubs to be planted are: red and white cedars, spruce, birch, white pine, elms, cherry, willow and red alders.

Several hundred garden plots, in the vicinity of the sewage plant, are now being worked by unemployed families. Not far away, too, Boy Scouts are engaged in excavating for the construction of a swimming pool. The Scouts plan to establish a permanent campsite there, and will also build rustic benches and bridges about the place.

Trout Spearers Nabbed

Bessemer—Edward Swanbeck and Robert Carlson, both of Ironwood township, yesterday afternoon chose to spend the next 10 days in the county jail for spearing trout rather than pay $5.00 fines. Judgment fees and costs brought the amount to $12.85 each.

The men were arraigned before Justice Levi S. Rice on charges brought by Day Barron, conservation officer. They pleaded guilty to spearing the fish in a stream near the Carp river in Wakefield township. Four of the eight trout, all less than the legal length of seven inches, had been speared.

Standard Time Is Given By Sundial

Otsego Lake, Mich. (AP)—There is a sundial here which tells the hours not in sun time but in Central Standard time.

It was built by Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, Nobel prize winner and famous student of the Cosmic ray, who constructed the dial while a teacher at Cornell university.

He made it for his parents of Wooster, O., and had it placed at their summer cottage here. Mathematical changes from the standard type of sundial had to be made.

Lansing, May 31 (AP)—The state bank advisory committee today approved the appointment of A. H. McMillan as conservator of the People's State Savings Bank of Munising.

Reorganization plans for the State Savings Bank of South Lyons, the Kent City State Bank, Springport State Savings Bank and the State Bank of F. W. Hubbard and company, of Bad Axe, were approved.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The big guns of the Northland Cafe club swung into action, bombarding Fleming for 14 hits and 11 runs which gave the Bears their seventh consecutive victory, this time over the Munising Oilers, 1932 U. P. champs. With Charron, LaCombe and Fisher leading the assault, the Bears lead was never overcome, the Oils being held to six hits and five runs. Fleming and Arbour were the Oiler's batting stars.

Batteries: (N. Cafes) E. Artibee and Dale. (M. Oilers) Fleming and Ferris.

After being let down with no hits and no runs in their last contest, Miron's Coaldusters came back with a powerful batting attack to defeat the Swedes 8-3. The Black Diamonds concentrated their assault in the third frame, scoring 4 runs. Norberg, Scandinavian 3rd sacker continued to top the league in batting as he connected safely with two for three. Batteries: (Miron's) Raica and Lafave. (Swedes) E. Seaberg and Bell.

Dockyards Are Just Nurseries for Bums

Sydney, Australia (AP)—Convinced that the government-owned dockyards at Cockatoo Island (Sydney) and Walsh Island (Newcastle) are merely nurseries for loafers, Australia has at last determined to get rid of these concerns.

For years the dockyards, which are equipped for commercial work as well as naval requirements, have been recording heavy annual losses. All efforts to make the works efficient and profitable have failed.

Cockatoo Island dock has already been disposed of on a long lease which provides that it will revert to the government in event of war. Walsh Island dock probably will be auctioned.

BUSINESSMEN SHOULD ACT

IF businessmen of Escanaba are as aggressive and wide awake today as they have been in the past, they will not permit the coming fall to pass without the staging of something approaching even a county fair at the state fair grounds here. That the Upper Peninsula State Fair will eventually be reestablished is a certainty and to permit even one fall season to pass without some use being made of the magnificent fair grounds plant here, is almost unthinkable.

Both state and county aid for such a project are, of course, out of consideration, but Escanaba, as home of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, has a certain position to maintain and unless at least an effort is made to sound out the sentiment of Escanaba's business interests, the reputation of Escanaba is bound to suffer measurably. Escanaba, through years of effort, has established an enviable reputation among the people of the peninsula and this reputation should be maintained at any reasonable cost.

Of course, nothing approaching the annual programs of the Upper Peninsula State Fair could be attempted, but it is believed that the interest of a considerable number of people in this end of the peninsula could be preserved by a program, the cost of which would not be prohibitive.

The proposal is at least worthy of consideration by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

TIME TO STRIKE

WITH the practical certainty that congress will enact legislation that will make possible the carrying out of a three billion dollar public works program and the added certainty that a considerable part of Michigan's portion of this federal fund will be expended for highway construction, residents of western and south central sections of the upper peninsula, should seize this opportunity to insure the building of a modern highway from St. Ignace to Menominee.

The completion last year of a long stretch of concrete highway, leading from the straits to the Soo, has taken care of the immediate needs of that section of Hiawathaland and unless that completed highway is matched by concrete leading from the straits toward Manistique, Escanaba and Menominee, this section of the peninsula will continue to be discriminated against in the distribution of tourist traffic. It is a well established fact that tourists largely follow highways shown on the maps as concreted and with but gravel and tar macadam covering that long stretch of U. S. No. 2 from the straits to Kipling and a gap of more than 30 miles remaining between Escanaba and Menominee, there will continue the invitation of concrete for tourists to visit the Soo and the eastern end of the peninsula, rather than view the beauties of this great summer land to be found in the rest of the peninsula.

Federal highways U. S. 2 and U. S. 41 are acknowledgedly the outstanding highways of the peninsula and these routes should receive major attention, when the peninsula's portion of highway construction work is allotted. Road builders of the peninsula are to meet in Escanaba early in this month and in addition to Highway Commissioner Grover C. Dillman, who is certain to be in attendance, every effort should be exerted to insure the presence at this meeting of Murray D. Van Wagoner, Mr. Dillman's successor on July 1, in order that the new directing head of Michigan's highways may be impressed with highway needs of this section of the peninsula.

END IN SIGHT?

MEMBERS of the Michigan legislature, approaching what should be the last lap of the present session, went back to work yesterday on a program that still carries many important matters that must be disposed of before adjournment. Adoption of a sales tax bill, or some measure that will provide the state government with funds with which to operate for the next two years; disposition of legislation fixing the status of tax delinquents and final decision on Michigan's school aid law, constitute the biggest problems facing the legislators.

The house of representatives promptly passed Gov. Comstock's gross income and sales tax bill, but in the senate violent objection to the measure developed and a committee of that body is expected to report a substitute measure this week. No matter what action is finally taken on this matter, statewide criticism is certain to develop, but the door has been definitely closed to property taxation, beyond the 15 mill limitation, outside of villages and cities and some source of revenue for supporting the state government, state institutions and schools must be developed and adopted.

Violent dispute has developed as to the treatment to be accorded by the state of Michigan to owners of delinquent tax property. Members of the house displayed an independent attitude on this matter by refusing bills that had been prepared and fashioning a measure that reflected the views of a majority. The senate is now battling with this question and some plan for amortizing delinquent taxes of past years will, likely be adopted. There is a soundly founded sentiment in the state that every possible consideration should be accorded owners of delinquent tax property but there is also a soundly founded sentiment that this must not be accomplished at the expense of property owners who have made monumental sacrifices in order to make their tax payments.

Members of the house of representatives have fixed the amount of state aid for schools at $15,000,000, which amount is satisfactory, apparently to all but members of the Michigan Educational Association, who sought a fund of $25,000,000. Out state communities and the poorer school districts of the state feel that the smaller fund will prove sufficient for the needs of a modified educational program, if it is distributed on a proper basis. As passed by the house of representatives, state aid for schools, will give the large metropolitan centers an advantage in the distribution of the proposed fund, wholly out of line with their needs as compared with the desperate need of rural and small city school districts.

The present Michigan legislature threatens to establish an all time record for a continuous session and while the end should be in sight, there is much still to be accomplished if this is not to go down in the record as the fightingest and just about the most useless legislature in the history of the state.

SHE WASN'T TACTFUL

SECRETARY Frances Perkins believes, it appears, that a "social revolution will take place if you put shoes on the people of the South." Evidently Miss Frances has more fixed "ideas" than common sense. Already she has brought from a former governor of Georgia a half satirical, half angry assurance that people below the Mason and Dixon line do sometimes wear shoes, and from Senator Glass a tart remark that when he was a boy "we didn't care a tinker's damn for a boy who wore shoes, and he was regarded as a sissy."

We are afraid Miss Perkins isn't going to be much of a hit in Dixie. After all, the people of this country are not clinical subjects for social workers, and they don't really care to be managed, even by a lady in high position in Washington. If the secretary of labor remembers this, she may increase her general usefulness as a public official.

SMALLER GIFTS TO COLLEGES

THE day of great gifts to colleges and universities is just about over, if a recent appeal from President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University to Columbia alumni is taken as a criterion.

In this appeal President Butler urged support of the university through small gifts. In the past Columbia has been very fortunate in getting many large donations. But now, says President Butler:

"The great fortunes and the large accumulations which made these benefactions possible are either dissipated or destroyed. The economic and financial crisis which grips the whole world has made their return quite impossible, certainly for a long time to come, if not forever."

The significance of this change to the privately-endowed institution of higher education could hardly be overestimated.

DARLING FOOL

(By NEA Service) BY MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXXVI

Charles' thick letter awaited Monnie at the hotel in London. Curious how her heart leaped at the sight of it. It must be, she told herself, that she expected from Charles some news of Dan. Yes, that was the reason. The square white envelope, the bold, irregular black handwriting were eloquent of Charles' personality. This letter, too, was filled with characteristic phrases.

Miss Anstice's voice aroused her. "I said, my dear, that if we are going to make the Cheshire Cheese for luncheon we'd better hurry. That must be a very fascinating letter. You've read it three times and I've been speaking to you for five minutes without getting your attention."

Monnie blushed. "Fibber! I only just finished reading it the first time."

"Well, anyhow we've got to be starting. I'm perishing for food. The Tower of London was very interesting but I'm a wreck. I said I would do all the tourist things and I'm doing them though it's hard on me."

Monnie tucked Charles' letter in the bottom of her overnight bag among her creams and brushes. He'd said he missed her—but he hadn't said a word about Dan. Gossip about home, about Kay and her mother and the boys. The Watermans had given a party on the 17th and Kay had looked lovely in some yellow thing. Kay and Charles! Well, that would be nice, too. Why did her heart suffer that queer little pang at the thought? It was Dan whom Monnie wanted—Dan whom she loved! Pride was all very well. It sustained you sometimes but not when you were aching desperately for news of the loved one. Why hadn't Charles mentioned Dan? Probably he, like everyone else, thought Monnie had gone away to forget about Dan. Well, everyone was right—only the plan didn't work as well as she'd hoped it would.

"Coming, Miss Anstice!" Monnie's crowded her small green hat, the one Miss Anstice had insisted on buying for her in that Bond street place, over her bronze curls. She looked well, she told herself, as she had told her year ago if anyone had told her a single one of these fairy-tale happenings were to take place she'd have laughed at him. Well, here she was thousands of miles away from home, going to smart places, eating rich food, being feted. Yes, feted! Hadn't Arthur Mackenzie given a dinner party for her the night before at the Ritz? Wasn't he taking her this very evening to dine and dance at one of the new night places—the Club Cavendish or something like that?

Monnie liked Arthur Mackenzie now—wasn't afraid of him any more. Maybe his dark eyes had lost that predatory look which at first had frightened her. He played big brother to her these days. Oh, she knew he was spoiled—she could see that but it didn't matter. He was inclined to pout, quite like a big baby, at the first hint of not getting his own way.

"Women have spoiled me, Monica," he had told her, half laughing, the night before as they danced. "You're the first one who ever kept me from having my own way in all things."

That was funny, Monnie thought—funny that she, a small town girl, should be the one to humble this king of finance. What he had been speaking about in particular was her stubbornness in standing out against him when he'd wanted to buy her that fur wrap yesterday morning. He had come upon her and Miss Anstice, trailing along Bond street looking in this window and that, and had insisted on accompanying them upon the foray to buy the hat.

The mannequin in the fur wrap had strolled past them at Mackenzie's bidding. Monica had crowed softly at sight of the wrap—deep, soft fur, cuddling the thin cheeks of the blond English girl who wore it.

"Splendid for foggy weather, eh?" Mackenzie had asked with a twinkle.

"Oh, excellent for that, sir," the saleswoman had chirped, and the mannequin had given Monnie an envious sidelong glance.

"Try it on, Monica," the man had urged under Miss Anstice's clear, critical gaze.

"Nonsense." She had been very sturdy about it. "No use making myself unhappy. I should be remembering always how it felt."

He had smiled again at that. "But I'd like you to have it. Little remembrance of this trip." Monica had not needed to look at Miss Anstice to know that the prim little lips were pressed together even more primly. Her own conscience had risen in protest.

"Sorry. I couldn't possibly—" She had thought with a flash of amazement that the glance the mannequin gave her held something like contempt.

Afterward Miss Anstice had been downright strange about it. She had said in a dimly regretful tone, "What a pity you couldn't have accepted it from him, Monnie." At the girl's exclamation of surprise she had hastened to add, "Naturally I know you couldn't! But, after all, he's so nice, takes such an interest—and you would have looked so lovely in that. Quite dazzled Belvedere."

Monnie gave the older woman a hug. "Miss Corey, I'm surprised at you!"

"I know. I'm surprised at myself. But I guess I've got my values a bit mixed on this trip. I'm getting soft with so much luxury."

Tonight Monnie was dining with Mackenzie alone. Miss Anstice was to go to the theater with some friends who lived in a flat in Kensington Gardens and Mackenzie was to pick Monnie up at 8. At half past seven she was ready and restless. Miss Anstice, called for early by the Mr. and Mrs. Richardson from Cincinnati, had gone.

The girl strolled to and fro, picking up a magazine, laying it down again. She glanced at the Dresden clock on the mantlepiece. How restless she was! She wished Mackenzie would come. Then she wouldn't have so much time to think about home—about mother and Kay and the boys, to wonder what they were doing. She was a selfish pig to be away from them all, enjoying this luxury. She would have to make it up to them when she got back. But how? Suddenly, like a black vista, the years yawned before Monnie. What was she

BUILD AGAIN

Yes, I have suffered, as have all,
For I have had my castles fall.
Have had my garden swept away
By the swift flood of yesterday.
For I had built of dreams alone,
In too great haste to build of stone,
And made my garden hurriedly,
Because I would not wait the tree.

Stones are so heavy, dreams so light,
Stones take so long, a dream a night,
And there are blossoms quick to bloom,
While apple orchards years consume.
And so I built my house of dreams,
My walls but wishes, hopes for beams,
And made my garden in an hour,
Thought not of fruit, of only flow'r.

The flood of yesterday is past,
For even storms must end at last.
And I may build and sow again,
And so I shall, but not as then.
Another house I'll build me now,
Another garden plant and plow,
But I'll have stronger walls than these,
And rows and rows of apple trees.

NO PENALTIES UNTIL JULY 1

Only Month Left for Taxpayers to Avoid Extra Charge

Delta county taxpayers wishing to pay delinquent taxes without penalty are reminded by County Treasurer Ralph R. Olsen that June is the last month for paying their assessments on this basis.

The Bellows bill, signed April 22 by Governor Comstock, provided "for payment either to county treasurers or to the auditor general, taxes of 1932 and prior years without any charge for penalties, collection fees or interest," if paid by July 1.

Prompt payment would be of great assistance to the county, say local officials. It is expected that the collections will be quite heavy before the deadline date.

Final Tax Allocation

County Treasurer Olsen, as chairman of the county tax commission, yesterday mailed out notices of the final order on tax allocations to the various governmental units. No changes from those figures announced about a week ago are contained in the final orders. Delta county has been allocated 5.2 mills; school of Escanaba and Gladstone, 8.9 mills; the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone and village of Garden, one-tenth of a mill; and the state eight-tenths of a mill. Allocations for the townships and rural school districts are fixed at various figures, according to relative need.

The charters of Escanaba, Gladstone and Garden enable those units to avoid the restrictions of the 15-mill tax limitation amendment.

ENGADINE

Engadine, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hancock, Mrs. Gordon Edwards and Mrs. Myrtle Eakley motored to Pickford last Friday. They were accompanied on the return trip by Roy Hancock who is attending the Pickford high school, and who spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hancock.

The Rapinville baseball team gave a dance at the Elsiner school house last Friday night. Many of the young folks who attended reported a nice time.

Erwin Roberts and Carlisle Hancock of Pickford spent the week-end with Roy Hancock at the A. G. Hancock home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Butler and family spent Sunday with the latter's sister, Mrs. James Ward, of Newberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Paradise and son Mervin are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neil.

Martin Isenbeck and son Lloyd have completed the fish pond which is located on the A. A. Flora property near the service station. The pool which originally was intended for a bear bath was turned into a fish pond in which will be placed hundreds of fish, of all sizes and species. Mr. Floria already has about twenty-five different kinds of fish in the pool which is about 18 feet long, 10 feet wide and four feet deep with a raised island in the center, under which the fish made hide. The pool is made entirely of cement and stone at one end of which is a fountain which sprays the water into the pool and at the opposite end is the drain, or overflow, below which is the drain which can be opened at any time. The supply of water comes from a flowing well located on the premises, which insures a fresh supply of water at all times. The pool when finally completed will have a row of Lake Superior hard head stones competely around the top of the pool, and set in the cement. A wire fence about a foot high completely surrounds the pool on all sides. It is expected that thousands of visitors will view this beautiful pool during the tourist season. Mr. Floria is to be congratulated upon his inventive ability, and original ideas.

The tie mill operated by Mr. Hancock of Manistique started today and will cut out the run in a few days. The mill turns out about five hundred ties in a day, and employs about ten men. Mr. Hancock will move his crew from here to George Hides' sawmill north of here, and cut out his run of timber before returning to Manistique.

Misses Louise and Mary Proton of Detroit are visiting at the home of their father, Peter Proton, and will leave for Detroit on Wednesday.

The Engadine postoffice was closed all day Memorial Day, except at mail delivery time.

Miss Josephine Polivka returned Monday from a business trip to Marquette.

BEING LAWYER HELPED GARNER

Had No Difficulty in Judicial Role at Louderback Trial

BY KIRKE SIMPSON

Washington—It is a fortunate thing for John Nance Garner of Texas, vice president of the United States, president of the United States senate and in that capacity presiding officer at the impeachment trial of Federal Judge Louderback of California, that he began as a lawyer.

Garner

Yet the date of his admission to the bar down in Uvalde county, in 1890, is so far back and behind his years in politics that the ease with which he assumed his novel judicial role surprised most onlookers.

The records show that Garner practiced eight years or so in Uvalde county before his first election, which was to the state legislature. He came to congress in 1903 and has been in Washington political life ever since, which did not leave much opportunity for keeping up his legal practice.

When the Louderback case reached the stage of taking testimony, with 40 or more witnesses to be summoned, the vice president found himself instantly in a strictly judicial capacity.

Counsel for the accused judge and managers for the house were all well-seasoned lawyers. The rules of evidence were familiar to them from much court practice. And so far as anybody could tell, the rules of the game were just as familiar to the vice president.

Enjoyed Himself

Listening in on the clashes of counsel which involved fine technical points, one got an impression that "Texas Jack" was enjoying himself on the bench. To relieve him at times a stipulation was agreed to that he could call some senator to the chair at will in the absence of Senator Pittman, president pro tem of the senate, but Garner sat it out most of the time himself.

Not in two decades has a vice president been called upon to exercise this judicial capacity. If impeachment proceedings before the senate were more frequent, presumably some regularized method for putting a man with legal training and experience on the rostrum at such times would be desirable.

Might Like the Bench

Perhaps Jack Garner may develop a taste for the bench when, is ever, he thinks of retiring from active political life. He seemed to have little recourse to advisers in deciding judicial points that arose in the Louderback impeachment trial.

One thing he decided upon promptly—that the senate formed "too intelligent a jury" for the strict niceties of the rules of evidence to be required in all cases. The senate agreed with him.

Those New Ideas In Economics

Buying and Selling Dollars; No Standard to Cling to; Making a Market in Money

BY J. R. BRACKETT
(Associated Press Business Writer)

New York (AP)—With the United States off the gold standard, and most of the other nations only, at the most, partially maintaining it, the always complex job of buying and selling money to settle international obligations has become even more difficult.

When the world's monies were set in value according to a specified amount of gold, the dealers in monies and foreign trade could be confident that a forward contract for goods would cost the same amount of money no matter what the date of payment.

If an American owed an Englishman a thousand pounds, he would be sure that he could buy those pounds for the same number of dollars at any time. Without any standard, the American may find he has to put up more dollars to buy the pounds.

What does it mean to buy and sell money?

Exchanging Monies

Suppose an Englishman buys $5,000 worth of wheat from an American, proposing to pay for it in pounds. The Englishman has pounds in an English bank, and he authorizes the bank to place the necessary number of pounds to the American's credit.

The American, however, does not want pounds because only dollars may be spent in America. He wants to change the pounds into dollars and bring them home.

Suppose at the same time another American buys from another Englishman some woolen cloth worth $5,000. He is in England and he wants to pay the Englishman in pounds. His problem is to find someone who wants to trade pounds for dollars.

He goes to a dealer in monies—a foreign exchange dealer. This dealer has a contact with the English bank, and finds that the bank has pounds which the English wheat buyer placed to the credit of the first American.

Suppose the dealer offers $4 (to make it simple) for each pound, and the bank accepts the dollars for 1250 pounds. The bank now has $5,000 in dollars to the first American's credit, and the second American has pounds to pay for his woolen goods.

Balances of Money

Thousands of transactions similar to this one are occurring all the time in pounds, dollars, francs and so on. They depend for their fulfillment on actual transactions in trade. In all major countries, therefore, there exists balances of various monies which may be traded—bought and sold—for other monies.

When governments are on the gold standard the traders know that the exchange value of one money for the other always will be approximately the same, because the money can be exchanged for gold, which is always acceptable in all countries.

When off the gold standard, the exchange value of these monies will fluctuate according to the supply of and demand for them.

Fluctuating Values

The thousands of foreign traders make known to the foreign exchange dealers their various needs for money. The dealers, thus having money both to buy and sell, arrange the transactions.

If pounds are heavily in demand it will take more dollars to buy them, fewer pounds to buy dollars and so on.

These prices are quoted on a tape so that all traders can see what the monies are bringing and base their own transactions accordingly. Practically always someone wants to buy or sell some nation's money, thus establishing a money market just as there are markets for wheat and stocks.

It is toward stabilizing this market by fixing the values of the different monies in terms of gold or some other standard that much of the world's effort is now directed.

Marquette To Hold Air Carnival Sunday

Marquette, Mich.—Because of unfavorable weather yesterday morning, keeping most outside flyers at their home ports, the air carnival planned at the Marquette airport had to be postponed until Sunday afternoon.

Among the out-of-town flyers who will be here are Wally Arntzen, of Escanaba, and Harold Skelly, of Hancock, both members of the U. S. army reserve flying corps. Skelly will make an outside loop during a stunting exhibition for spectators. This is one of the most difficult turns aviators make.

Either Skelly or Arntzen will be at the controls of the Cessna plane, owned by Sig Wilson, of Marquette, when Bob Odell makes a parachute jump onto the field.

All Marquette and outside flyers participating in the air meet Sunday will take part in an air parade over Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee. The planes will leave the field here at 12 o'clock, circle over Marquette and then go to Negaunee and Ishpeming, returning to the field at 12:30 o'clock. Passengers will be carried during the afternoon.

Arntzen attempted to come into the Marquette field yesterday morning, but was forced to turn back to Escanaba when three miles from the field because of the heavy fog.

The Cherokees are the only Indians to have literature recorded in an Indian alphabet. Sequayah, a Cherokee inventor, worked out this alphabet in 1821.

INSPECTORS TO BE NAMED SOON

To Investigate Applications for Beer Licenses in U. P.

Commencing June 1, the upper peninsula branch office of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission will accept applications and fees for beer licenses, give receipts and also investigate applications for the making of recommendations to the Lansing office, Marvin L. Coon announced yesterday.

Because of the lack of necessary help in the past, the upper peninsula office has been only giving out application blanks, the rest of the procedure being taken care of by the Lansing office of the liquor control commission. Beer inspectors and regular clerical help will be assigned to the Escanaba office before the end of the week.

Mr. Coon said yesterday that revenue stamps, in all denominations, for beer manufactured within the state are now available here. The Menominee Brewing company was the first to obtain a supply of the in-state stamps.

According to a bulletin received yesterday, the executive committee of the commission has ruled that only grocery stores and drug stores may be licensed as specially designated beer merchants.

Another bulletin states that where special licenses, issued for Sunday, a condition of the licenses must be that no beer will be served before 12 o'clock noon. This applies to special licenses for the sale of beer at picnics and other similar events. The commission's ruling, prohibiting serving of beer over the bar or counter, also applies to special licenses.

Absent Voters May Get Ballots Now

Voters who will be absent from the city on Monday, June 12, may cast their ballots for the school election beforehand through the absent-voter arrangement.

Louis N. Schammel, secretary of the board of education, will have the absent voter ballots for distribution to those who need them, starting today. The ballots can be obtained from Mr. Schammel at his home, 400 South Ninth street.

WENDELL LUND TO HEAD DEP'T

Will Have Charges of English Work at Augustana U.

Wendell Lund, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. Albert Lund of Escanaba, has been appointed head of the English department of Augustana university, Rock Island, Ill., and will assume his new duties at the beginning of the summer session.

Professor Lund has just completed a two years' study at Princeton university for his Ph. D. degree. He left Princeton yesterday to attend the annual commencement exercises at Augustana, opening next Sunday, and then will come to Escanaba, accompanied by his brother, Malcolm, to visit with his parents for a week. Malcolm is a student at Augustana college.

Professor Lund was graduated from Escanaba high school in 1922. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Augustana, later attending New York, Columbia and Princeton universities. During the 1931-32 school year, he was an instructor of English at Augustana college, where he will return this summer as head of the department.

The college board has also asked him to devote part time, if possible, to the position of executive secretary of the institution. These extra duties consist of alumni relations work, publication of bulletins, student solicitation and financial administration.

THEATRES

Black magic and the art of legerdemain make "Trick For Trick," at the Delft Theatre, one of the most entertaining films of the season. Imagine two magicians testing the superiority of each other with a contest of illusions, rabbit pulling, disappearing eggs and finally the solution of a murder mystery.

Ever since the Witch of Endor began holding seances up on the mount, seers and magicians have held the public's fancy with their faking and illusions. For the first time on any screen Hamilton MacFadden, the director, has exposed those chicaneries for what they are worth and, judging from the excitement aroused by the film, they are worth plenty.

Fashions of the Gay Nineties at Mirande Showing

BY ADELAIDE KERR

Paris, May 31 (AP)—Seductive styles of the "haughty nineties" returned to fashion recently with Mirande's exhibition of evening gowns designed with the sweeping flounced skirts and ruched shoulder lines worn by fashionable beauties forty years ago.

Excited murmurs greeted the first exhibition as Mannequins moved across the salons with languorous grace to exhibit the trailing frocks of black net and white lace. Most of them were designed with low cut decollete and slender skirts which fitted figures closely to the knee line and then swelled into flounces sweeping the floor in the back.

A black net frock named "1900" was the outstanding model of the display. It was designed with a low cut decollete and a slender skirt ending in five pleated flounces over a rustling taffeta foundation.

The frock, which swept the floor for several inches in the back, was finished with a cluster of white gardenias at the front of the waistline and worn with a little waistlength flounced cape of black net.

The vogue for ostrich feather trimmings which swept the fashionable world in the gay nineties was also revived with the exhibition of a trailing pink satin gown topped with a full length sleeveless wrap of pink chiffon having a collar and hem band of uncurled pink ostrich.

Formal afternoon costumes in shades of pearl grey and aster blue crepe combined short or long sleeved frocks with three quarter length wraps. One of the smartest was a pearl grey crepe frock fashioned with long bishop sleeves and a girdle of aster blue crepe, and worn with a three-quarter length blue crepe coat collared in blue feathers.

Simplicity—With Elegance

(From Jay Thorpe, Inc., New York)

Wedding gowns for the June bride have extravagant elegance, even though they appear classically simple to the eye.

Dainty ruchings, exquisite hand seaming, tucking, unusual designing all join to dress June brides up in a new and exciting manner.

Net wedding dresses are something new and lovely. Even though models are shown in satin or crepe, the better stores will humor a bride's whim and clothe her in diaphanous net for the day of days.

One of the loveliest bridal gowns yet seen has a seemingly simple little jacket that buttons from a sloping-up waistline clear to the square front neck with tiny, tiny buttons. The back of it has the cutest little bustle in the world, organ-pleated at the top and flaring just enough to show how slim the bride really is.

The sleeves are long, tight to above the elbow where they make graduated puffs that arrive at their fullest just before being attached with a pin pleated ruching heading. The same fine little pin pleatings make a ruching edge down the long, flaring panels of the train and edge the bottom of the skirt all the way around.

The best touch, possibly, is the very chic little cap which holds the tulle veil, a tiny cap which sits high on the head, with the pin-tucked ruching standing up about it, and a little veil coming down over the forehead, then sweeping down the back.

The bridesmaids' costume for this wedding party are quite as arresting and fascinating as the wedding gown itself.

Fashioned of chartreuse net, they are made with molded lines, a flounced shoulder cape of the neat net all finely pleated, with a heading. Then there is a lovely cascade of the net pleating which starts wide at the hemline, then graduates to narrower pleats as it nears the waistline in the back where it turns up and then cascades down the other side. The back of the chartreuse net dress has a very cute little train.

There is a diminutive bridesmaid's hat, of matching crepe, with a little veil that stands out all the way around.

Ring Scarfs of Metal Are New

Paris (AP)—Metal ring scarfs are a new accessory trick for women who want "something different." They are made of shimmering metal wire as fine as a thread and are fashioned by linking dollar sized circles together to form a rectangular piece broad enough to cover the shoulders. The head is thrust through a square in the center. The scarfs are most effective when worn over black.

Mrs. Dall's Gown Of Dresden Motif

Washington (AP)—For an informal dinner at the White House, Mrs. Curtis Dall, daughter of the President, wore an airy organdie embroidered in a dainty blue-and-pink dresden motif.

Cooking School Classes Attract Big Attendance

Women of Escanaba and surrounding districts are showing a keen interest in Ward's cooking school, classes of which are being held each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the special cooking school department of Montgomery Ward and company's store, 1200 Ludington street.

The classes which are under the supervision of W. W. Hoyt, a representative of the National Pressure Cooker company of Eau Claire, Wis., are forty-five minute sessions, which show the housewife, among other interesting features, how to prepare a complete meal in fifteen minutes time.

The demonstration of cooking and canning, it was pointed out by a cooking expert yesterday, are teaching women who are thrifty of themselves and of family funds an easy way to handle the problem of 1095 meals a year at a great saving of time, money and effort. The saving in time alone, it is computed, is equal to two full weeks of vacation from cooking duties a year.

The cooking school will be in session every afternoon, closing on Saturday. Gifts of beans and roast chicken are being presented each day and a pressure cooker will be the gift of the final day of the school.

Sailor Collars Back in Favor

Paris (AP)—Old-fashioned sailor collars are here again. The new designs are broader than ever, often standing two inches off each shoulder to give the broad-shouldered effect now in vogue.

One designer shows a black crepe street frock with a detachable sailor collar of white shaved lamb as a wrap. Another displays a sports frock of beige shantung with a sailor collar of navy blue poplin.

Princess Wears Tailored Suit

Washington (AP)—Princess Michael Cataeuzene looks extremely smart on shopping tours in a black tailored suit with a tailored, white silk blouse and a small straw sailor of black.

All work and no pay (for teachers) makes Jack a dull boy.

LOAN DEMANDS SHOW INCREASE

Cut in Farm Loan Interest Rates Cause, Says Sohlberg

"Announcement of a cut in loan interest rates for the Federal Land Band has stimulated a great deal of activity at our office," A. Theodore Sohlberg, secretary of the Baynoc National and Bark River National Farm Loan associations, and correspondent for the agent of the farm loan commissioner at St. Paul, stated yesterday.

"Three new types of loans are offered by the government: the federal farm loans at 4 1-2 per cent; the commissioner loans at 5 per cent, and direct loans from Federal Land Banks in territory not at the present time served by farm loan associations. These loans carry 5 per cent interest.

"Our office is being flooded with applications from Delta Menominee and Marquette counties for real estate loans, and we are making every effort to study the needs of the individual farmer and to prepare a 'set-up' that will enable each to carry on.

"In addition, there have been 336 applications for live stock and 'barnyard' loans that have passed through our office for official inspection and reports to the regional credit corporation. The money coming through on these applications should have a beneficial effect on business in general."

CREW OF COX VISITING HERE

Tell of Shipwreck on Rock of Ages Reef Last Saturday

Twenty members of the crew of the ill-fated steamer, George M. Cox, which went aground early on Saturday evening on Rock of Ages reef near Isle Royale, were whiling away time here yesterday while waiting to take the Ann Arbor ferry which left here early this morning for Frankfort, Mich. Most of the young men are from Manistee. The group arrived here shortly after ten o'clock Tuesday evening from Houghton, traveling in private cars. Harold Westcoat, general manager of the Isle Royal Air Line who had been a passenger on the Cox, drove one of the cars, returning immediately to Houghton.

Contrary to newspaper reports, the young men stated that there was plenty of room for all in the Rock of Ages lighthouse where both crew and passengers spent the evening after having escaped from the steamer in lifeboats. Members of the party here yesterday also stated that the steamer was cruising at a speed of about seven knots per hour and not 17 as was reported. They stated that the Cox could not travel at 17 knots an hour at full speed. Early Sunday morning the survivors were removed from the reef to Washington Harbor, Isle Royal, from where they boarded a boat for Houghton.

Describing the accident they said the Steamer Cox struck the rocks with a terrific impact and that they felt two distinct jars in rapid succession. Their first impression, they declared, was that they had collided with another boat. Most seriously injured, members of the crew declared, was a man scalded from the hips down with hot grease. Blame for the crash was pinned onto First Mate Arthur Kronk who was at the wheel at the time. Kronk, they stated, on his own initiative steered two points off the course outlined, a difference of approximately ten miles.

Despite the accident crew members were in a jovial mood and were confident that they would secure re-employment on either the Steamer Isle Royal or Tennessee. All of their expenses enroute to their homes are being paid by the Isle Royal Transit company. The majority of those here yesterday were employed as deck and mess hands, firemen and musicians.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 31 (AP)—Stock traders were more eager to convert paper profits into cash today and the list closed lower after being irregularly higher through much of the active market.

Operations for the advance went forward busily in a few groups, notably rails, metals and several low-priced specialties, but reluctance of numerous leaders in other divisions to follow these flurries brought general recessions toward the close and many leaders were off 1 to 3 points net. Turnover of 6,087,120 shares kept the ticker frequently behind floor transactions.

On the other hand, most commodities retained their inflationary spirits, despite dips by wheat and corn. Cotton hastened to catch up with yesterday's rise on markets that were open during our holiday, but its gain of around $1.50 a bale to new high prices was largely lost. Copper, sugar, tin, silver, rubber and hides extended recent advances.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press stock composite, which ended April at 66, rounded out May at 76.6. This substantial appreciation, contrary to the May record for the past several years, was accompanied by sharply expanded activity, compilations showing that the month's volume exceeded 100,000,000 shares for the first time since April, 1930.

A rally by dollar exchange may have stimulated profit-taking in a market that had been preoccupied with thoughts of dollar depreciation and inflation. A number of so-called pivotal issues, however, acted a bit tired from their recent gymnastics. American Telephone, American Can, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Case, among others, tended to drag during rallies and showed net reactions of around 1 to 3.

The upward lift of trade, which has progressed steadily throughout May, apparently continues. "Iron Age" places current steel production at 41 percent against 38 percent last week and the review referred to the rapid establishment of the industry on "the firm footing of a sellers' market." Automobile manufacturers are still taking material as their retail sales expand; hte old month's bookings were the largest in two years for seevral steel producers.

Metal stocks liked the announcement that copper had been sold at 7⅝ cents a pound and listened also to rumors that a higher level was being aimed at. The oil situation looked more promising to many traders in view of legislation either planned or partially enacted, while car loadings figures suggested another rise over a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, May 31—Prospects that unofficial monthly estimates tomorrow would show crop improvement as compared with government May 1 figures gave a downward shove to wheat values today.
A transient burst of buying at the outset hoisted wheat to a new top price record for the season, but profit taking quickly developed, and speculative demand failed to last in the face of corn weakness. Better weather for planting operations did much to send the corn market downhill.
Wheat closed unsteady, 3-8 to 1 cent under Monday's finish, corn at 3-4 to 1 decline, oats 3-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 1 cents.
Trade records were said to show clearly that as a rule June was a bear month. The wheat crop, it was asserted, had generally been at the height of its promise then, and

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 31 (AP)—The bond market resumed operations with more zest today following the Memorial Day holiday and prices in the whole registered moderate improvement.
With the day's trading totaling $16,114,000, the composite average showed a gain of one-tenth of a point.
The best score was made in the railroad and industrial field, but the utilities lagged a bit behind Monday's final quotations. United States government loans showed slight losses on the whole.
Interest in the foreign list was centered largely on the action of the French government 7 and 7½ percent issues, which registered strength coincident with announcement that semi-annual interest, due tomorrow, would be payable in the dollar equivalent of gold.
German loans, however, displayed a sagging tendency, attributed to uncertainty surrounding the outcome of the clinic now being held in Berlin by Germany's creditors.
Strength in the railroad and industrial list found confirmation in the optimistic hue of current trade reports. Among the rails which moved to better levels were such loans as the Alleghany corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific ,Boston & Maine.
The Rock Island issues gained following announcement that the interest payments would be met on schedule tomorrow, while Erie and Illinois Central loans were also firm.
There were several gains to the credit of the sugar and copper liens in the industrial field, based primarily on the improved position of these commodities.

ORDINANCE NO. 81

An ordinance to amend an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance to regulate the district the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses; to regulate the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected; to regulate and determine the area of yards, courts, and other open spaces; to limit and restrict the maximum number of families which may be housed in dwellings hereafter erected or structurally altered; and for said purposes divide the city into districts; to provide a method of administration, and to prescribe the penalties for the violation of its provisions".
Adopted: April 12, 1929, and numbered Ordinance No. 65.
Section 1. The zoning map on file in the Office of the City Clerk, and a part of Ordinance No. 65, is hereby changed, with the following described territory to be known henceforth as a Class "C" District:
Commencing at the intersection of South Nineteenth Street, with the alley running between Ludington Street and First Avenue South, thence Easterly through said alley to the West line of South Thirteenth Street; thence South along said West line to the North line of the alley, running East and West between First Avenue South and Second Avenue South; thence westerly along the North line of said alley to a point where said alley intersects with the East line of South Fifteenth Street, thence North fifty (50) feet, thence westerly at right angles to the East line of Nineteenth Street, thence north along said East line of South Nineteenth Street to the place of beginning.
A public hearing of said ordinance will be held in the Council Chambers of the City of Escanaba at 7:30 o'clock, P. M. E. S. T. on the 18th day of May, 1933.
This ordinance shall be published in the Escanaba Daily Press and shall be in effect ten (10) days after final reading.
Passed at a meeting of the Council held May 18, 1933.
CARL E. ANDERSON,
City Clerk.

ernment was preparing to dispose of part of its big holding of futures, estimated to total 170,000,000 bushels.
Notwithstanding hesitancy shown by the wheat market, leading houses said interest continued to be focused on Washington, and that with the administration committed to an inflationary program the only question was how rapidly this plan of procedure could be made effective.
Big receipts and enlarged rural offerings lost additional weight on the corn market. Oats dragged lower with wheat and corn.
Provisions sagged, responsive to downturns of hog values and of grain.
Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 71 3-4 to 7-8, 74½ to 5-8; September, 73 3-4 to 7-8, 76 5-8 to 7-8; December, 76 5-8 to 3-4, 79¾ to 3-8. Corn—July, 44 1-8 to ¼, 45 5-8 to 3-4; September, 46 5-8 to 3-4, 48 3-8; December, 49½, 50 7-8.

Washington News Column

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The political implications of the Morgan disclosures are likely to be numerous. The country has never heard anything like those disclosures and reports indicate that it is pretty sore.
Much more startling than the revelation that the Morgan partners paid no income taxes was the fact that the Morgan firm, with its hands on a vast network of industry and finance, had distributed favors impartially among leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties.
Half a dozen men who had been seriously mentioned for the presidency of the United States were among those to whom Morgan secretly sold stock at not much more than half the market price. It is fairly certain that none of them will be seriously considered again.

Subject to Attack

As long as they participate in politics they will be subject to attack as "Morgan men."
In both parties the cleavage will be accentuated between those who believe it is quite all right for a public figure to maintain a profitable friendship with the House of Morgan and those who don't. Progressives in both parties have new ammunition and a new battleground involving the great Morgan "spider web" of control.
There's a real political philosophy in the investigation. The men who have pushed it—and President Roosevelt himself has at least given it his blessing—want to reduce the Morgan power. That power has been less obvious in this administration than in any for a long time. Roosevelt, ever quick to seize a strong popular reaction and capitalize it, is expected soon to move in some way which will strengthen his popular support and leave him in a better position to place the Morgan and associated interests where they can no longer be considered an "invisible government."

Opponents On List

The list of prominent Democrats who received Morgan largesse was strongly reminiscent of the bloc of conservative party leaders who stood against Roosevelt when he sought the Democratic nomination. John W. Davis, John J. Raskob, Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, B. M. Baruch were among them.
Their political influence waned at the Chicago convention and now takes another sock. The only important erstwhile "stop-Roosevelt" leader missing from the lists was their old friend Al Smith.

Senators Involved

Some of the senators who voted against publicity for lists of the stock beneficiaries have some cause for worry since their own names were made public. Any one of them who isn't called on for an explanation the next time he comes before the voters will be lucky.
Senator McAdoo of California, who lost a presidential nomination nine years ago after it was disclosed that he had accepted a fee from Doheny, the oil man, doesn't have to run again for five years, but he was wild when he found that he was to be revealed as a Morgan friend who had received stock at below market value.

"Coalition of Rich"

Any third party movement which develops may be expected to make the Morgan revelations its chief stock in trade, since leaders in both the old parties have been smeared. Such a movement can make good use of the words of Senator James Couzens of Michigan, the richest man in Congress and a member of the investigating committee, who says:
"When it comes to money there are no Republicans or Democrats. Rich men never fight each other seriously. There's the finest coalition between all parties when it comes to control of the Treasury of the United States."

going to do with her life? With Dan out of it, she seemed aimless—couldn't make plans. She'd devoted heart and soul to him, had wrapped up all her ambitions in him. This was, after all, only an interlude. She'd have to go back home to a dreary, humdrum job and make the most of it. What about her dreams of doing something splendid for her mother and the rest? She'd never be able to.
She wrapped the dark velvet cloak around her as the pleasant British voice on the telephone announced Mackenzie's arrival.
"You look lovely, as always." He was bowing over her hand. She was whisked into the inevitably luxurious motor car that always attended this man's comings and goings. A soft rug was tucked around her feet. Mackenzie spoke through a tube and the motor purred noiselessly. The car slid forward. Fog held the night without but in the small intimacy of the car the two people sat, warm and enclosed.
"You'll like this place tonight, Monica." He had a pleasant voice, she reflected. Deep and resonant.
"That's one of the many things I like about you," he continued with gravity. "Your youthful enthusiasm. I've known so many jadad people—sated with life. With you everything's new."
"That's because I haven't been any place before," the girl told him without self-consciousness.
As they sat down at the candlelighted table with an obsequious pair of waiters hovering in attendance, she returned his smile with one of honest liking. How nice this man had been to her! Last night at the party Corinth Faneway had said to her with a curious high laugh, "Artie's taken a great fancy to you. Make the most of it."
And when Monnie had looked at her curiously the other girl had added, gratingly, "Oh, don't be a little fool. He's all right, Artie is."
It must be true—the gossip she'd heard—that Corinth and Mackenzie had been in love with each other although he was almost twice her age. But she was married to someone else now. It didn't seem to matter. "If I'd ever cared for anyone like that," thought Monnie, "I should hate the thought of giving him up to someone else."
Suddenly she realized that Mackenzie was studying her intently.
"What is it?" he asked.
"I've a bit of news for you, Monica?"
Why did her heart beat faster at the tone?
"I've got to leave tomorrow. Got a cable from the office this afternoon."
"Oh, I'm sorry!" It was true. She would miss this man and his many kindnesses.
He stared at her. "Monnie, I wonder—I want you to come back with me!"

Transfers Total 950,000 Shares; Some Issues Up

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 31 (AP)—Despite some heavy profit-taking in curb market industrials and other scattered spots, a number of issues were able to forge ahead today in a session that was marked by considerable churning of stocks. Transfers increased to 950,000 shares compared with 888,000 for Monday.
After a steady opening, prices firmed during the first hour but irregularity cropped out during the midday period and further weakness occurred in a number of leading shares at the close.
Profit taking in Aluminum Company accounted for a loss of 4 points. Deere slipped a minor fraction. General Tire & Rubber soared 12 points in moderate trading.
Utilities after holding firm most of the day closed irregularly lower. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 3 points. American Gas was off nearly 2 and Electric Bond and Share dipped a sizeable fraction. On the other hand, Cities Service improved a major fraction while American Superpower was slightly higher.
Oils, reflecting further attempts to stabilize crude oil prices, were firm most of the day.

SEVEN CHICAGO HITS WIN, 5-1

Pittsburgh Now Holds League Lead by Five Points

Pittsburgh, May 31 (AP)—Charlie Root, veteran right-handed pitcher, was stingy with hits with men on the bases as the Chicago Cubs made the most of their seven blows to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5 to 1 today.

Although defeated, the Pirates held to their lead in the National League but only by the slim margin of five points over the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

Root kept the Pirates' 10 hits well scattered and for seven innings kept the Corsairs away from the plate. In the eighth, however, a base on balls and singles by Gus Suhr and Earl Grace gave the league leaders their only tally.

Steve Swetonic started on the mound for the Pirates but was the victim of bad support in the first and fourth innings. He started the rue by walking English, who promptly stole second and went to third on Graces' wild throw from where he was in a position to score on Bill Herman's long fly.

Little But Honor Now Attached To Winning The Open

Chicago (AP)—Like the stock market, the value of the United States open golf championship isn't what it used to be in dollars and cents.

From an estimated value of $20,000 to its owner in 1928, the professionals say it has declined to about $10,000 or less.

Johnny Farrell, winner of the prized crown in that memorable play-off against Bobby Jones at Olympia Fields in 1928, was reported to have collected the most cash for the title—approximately $20,000 for exhibitions, advertising indorsements, teaching, etc.

The pros groaned as the mighty Jones won the title two years in a row in 1929 and '30 as an amateur, but Bobby collected in a big way later.

Since 1930, however, the open titleholders, Bill Burke and Gene Sarazen, haven't been able to raise anywhere near that amount. Sarazen, in fact, claims the title hasn't yielded much more than a living.

English Net Star Has Hopes In '33 Of Beating Helen

London, (AP)—Miss Sheila Hewitt, the young English tennis star who aims to take the place of "Lenglen" in the tennis world, has an overwhelming ambition to beat Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the American woman Wimbledon champion.

Under her amateur coach, Capt. Caulfield, she has been putting in much practice at Queen's club with one of the few strokes that Mrs. Wills Moody finds any difficulty in returning. It is the forehand back-hand shot that makes the ball stay almost where it lands.

Miss Hewitt had an unbeaten record in the south of France this year. Included among her victims was Fraulein Aussem, the German champion.

ADVANCE RELAY SALE IS BEGUN

Brisk Response Reported, Proteau and Others Practicing Here

Tickets for the U. P. Relays went on sale yesterday and the first day report was much better than even the most optimistic had expected. Principal John A. Lemmer of the Escanaba high school announced last night. The advance sale will continue all this week to assure a pro-rate rund to help pay the expenses of the competing teams.

Many of the out of town entrants in the Relays are now working out daily at the Escanaba athletic field in preparation for the events.

Among the more notable of the visitors is Proteau, Wakefield's one-man track team. The Wakefield ace sprinter and hurdler has been in Escanaba since the closing of school at Wakefield and has his eye turned on the hurdle trophies at the Relays.

Others here include Bud McLeod of Ironwood, a miler; and Seger of Wakefield. The Hermansville high school relay team was here yesterday and turned in a practice jaunt on the cinders.

Additional entries were announced yesterday as follows,

Kingsford

Mile—LaCoy, Evenson, Despinghams, Hagan, Archibald, LaSalle.

TILDEN THINKS DEFEAT IS DUE

Vines Not at His Peak, Says Veteran of Davis Cup Play

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 31 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden thinks the United States will be beaten again in the battle for the Davis Cup, but he hastened to add today, not because it develops the chairman of the American Davis Cup committee, Bernon S. Prentice, declined with thanks an offer to have the former world champion and his professional partner, Bruce Barnes, work out with the American team in Paris.

"We appreciated Tilden's offer, especially because of his knowledge of conditions and his experience abroad," said Prentice, "but I pointed out to him that we would have two extra players, in addition to the members of the Davis Cup team, for whatever light workouts we need. Big Bill will be welcome at our camp any time, but we will not do any heavy work, before either the inter-zone or challenge round matches, and there would be no need of using Tilden and Barnes."

Tilden was reluctant to discuss this development but admitted he had volunteered the services of himself and Barnes, without expense to the American Davis Cup forces for practice purposes. The American professionals sail June 8 for a European tour.

"Under the circumstances I was surprised by the reply I received from Prentice," said Tilden. "The offer was made in good faith and the belief that my long experience against the French on their home grounds might be helpful to an American team that is so anxious to win back the cup."

Tilden has great admiration for Ellsworth Vines, the American champion, but considers the Californian still short of his peak as a player and believes the United States will bump into another stonewall defense by the French cupholders.

"As a matter of fact our team may be lucky to get past the inter-zone finals, where they probably will oppose Australia," asserted Big Bill. "Jack Crawford, the Australian champion, is capable of winning two singles matches. England also is a strong factor.

"When it comes to the challenge round, I look for Henri Cochet to win both his singles matches for France, thereby leaving it up to Jean Borotra to win one of his two assignments. I feel safe in saying both will be at the top of their game for the big test and that no element of strategy will be overlooked to help them win.

"Obviously the failure of the Borotra-Brugnon doubles combination, because of age, has upset some of the French plans, but Cochet can step in to take part in the doubles, too, if the defenders decide to concentrate on winning this point.

"Vines is our only real chance, for he has proved he is the rare type of players who can win even when he is having a bad day. But he must win two singles matches for the United States to have a real chance in the challenge round. And that's where it gets tough."

Shields Defeated By French Player

Auteu, France, May 31 (AP)—The only American threat to the men's singles title in the French hard court tennis championships was removed today by the defeat of Frank Shields, United States Davis cup played in 1931 and 1932.

Left-handed Christian Boussus, third ranking Franch star, defeated Shields in four sets, 6-3, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, in a fourth round match to stand beside Marcel Bernard and Henri Cochet as defender of the title the French have held inviolate since it first was thrown open to the world in 1925.

BOXING

Pittsburgh, May 31. (AP)—Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, 145 1-4, of Memphis, tonight won a 10 round decision over Tracey Cox, 141, of Indianapolis.

Lord Derby's Hyperion Wins at Epsom Downs

BY ALVIN HALLMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Edsom Downs, Eng., May 31 (AP)—Lord Derby, most popular of English sportsmen, today won his family's third victory in the classic race named after the famous house when his Hyperion, 6 to 1 favorite, scored a smashing triumph over 23 of Britain's best three-fear-olds in the 150th running of the derby.

Stepping the testing one and one-half miles in two minues and 34 seconds, two fifths of a second faster than the record established by Call Bay in 1927 and equalled in 1928 by Felstead, Hyperion crossed the finish line in front of the royal box with four lengths to spare over Sir H. Cunliffe-Owen's King Salmon, quoted at 7 to 1.

Back in third place, a length to the rear of King Salmon, trailed Victor Emanuel's Statesman, a 2 to 1 shot and the first of the three American-owned horses to finish. Franz Hals, owned by John McCormack, Irish tenor, was seventh and W. M. G. Singer's Myosotis trailed near the end.

Although officially the distance between Hyprion and King Salmon was given as four lengths, it appeared, and photographs bore out the contention, that the son of Gainsborough and Seline finished twice that far in front of his nearest rival.

Away back was Lord Woolavington's Manitoba, the favorite until a few minutes before the race when a flood of money shoved Hyperion into the honored position.

The crowd was estimated at nearly a million, but nobody tried to count it. It included the king and queen and packed the huge grandstand, situated in the bowl-like setting of the Downs, and the adjacent standing room to capacity.

There couldn't have been a more popular winner than the smiling, witty Lord Derby.

"I'm too excited. I don't know what to say," was his answer to questions as he led Hyperion into the winners' circle.

"Yes, Hypecion ran a splendid race. I'm very pleased."

DEMPSEY WILL DO THE COUNT

Baer and Manager Agree on Mauler as Third Man in Ring

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31 (AP)—While Max Baer took a day off in his preparations for his 15 round scrap with Max Schmeling next Thursday, the referee question came to the fore in camp discussions and was promptly disposed of.

The discussion arose from the suggestion that Jack Dempsey assume the duties of the third man in the ring. Baer and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, agreed that it would be "Okay" with them to have the old man mauler as referee. He did the job when Baer lost to Paulino Uzcudun at Reno two years ago.

Hoffman added it didn't really matter who served as referee since his only duties would be to count up to ten over Schmeling when the Californian knocked him out.

Baer spent today lounging around his cottage at Ventnor. He 'ready appears fit to enter the ring, but he plans to resume boxing tomorrow and continue through Sunday, when his heavy workouts will be terminated.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

After one day at the top of the National League batting list, Harold (Pie) Traynor of Pittsburgh skidded clear to the bottom of the Big Six yesterday, yielding first place in his circuit and fourth in the sextet to Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn. Traynor was the only member of the Big Six to play and he failed to connect with Charley Root's pitching in five attempts. His average dropped 12 points from .360 to .348. The standing:

TWO PROTESTS HOLD UP MONEY

Drivers in Tiff With Officials Over Race at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, May 31 (AP)—Distribution of prize money to winners in yesterday's 500-mile automobile race here was upheld tonight and the drivers' dinner called off when two protests were filed against decisions of the officials as to the manner in which the cars finished.

Alden Sampson of Van Nuys, Calif., challenged the right of Lou Moore, Los Angeles driver, to third money on the ground that Moore's car was disqualified automatically when it allegedly lost an exhaust pipe extension. Sampson owns the car in which Chet Gardner of Long Beach, Calif., was declared by officials to have finished fourth.

Dispute for Fifth

Art Rose, Indianapolis, maintained that his entry, piloted by Dave Evans of Columbus, Ind., finished fifth instead of sixth. The officials yesterday declared Stubby Stubblefield of Los Angeles, the winner of fifth place.

Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., won the race in the record breaking time of 104.162 miles per hour. Two drivers and one mechanic died from injuries in the contest.

Moore, answering to the protest made by Sampson, told the officials he did not lose his exhaust pipe extension until after he had completed the 500 miles.

W. D. Edenburn of Detroit, and William Guy Wall, stewards of the race, took both protests under consideration and said they would make their decisions tomorrow afternoon. At that time all prize money will be distributed.

Dinner Called Off

T. E. Meyers, general manager of the speedway, said the dinner was called off because Meyer, who won $12,000 for first place, and $1150 in lap prizes, and Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, who finished second to win $6,000, and $1,000 in lap money, were the only men who could be paid.

Drivers and car owners engaged in a tiff with race officials yesterday over the decision not to permit Howard Wilcox, Indianapolis, to participate because physicians reported that he was not in physical condition for the long grind. The start of the classic was delayed several minutes until the matter was threshed out. Wilcox did not drive.

Death Toll Five

Rose said his check of the race showed that Evans finished ahead of Stubblefield, and he demanded a review of the time records. The records will be checked, Edenburn said.

Officials yesterday declared Moore to have finished third and Gardner in Sampson's racer to be fourth, a recheck, they announced this morning, reversed the positions. Another change dropped Cliff Bergere, Los Angeles, from tenth and last prize winning position, to eleventh. Luther Johnson, South Bend, Ind., a team mate of Bergere, was held to have finished tenth.

Mark Billman, Indianapolis, and Les Spangler, Los Angeles, drivers and G. L. Jordan, LaFayette, Ind., mechanic, were fatally injured in the race. Bill Denver, Audubon, Pa., and Hugh Hurst, Indianapolis, riding together, were fatally injured last Sunday while preparing for their qualifying run.

Wolverines Pick Tom Elroy For Captain Of Track

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 31 (AP)—Tom Ellerby, Birmingham, Mich., today was elected captain of the 1934 University of Michigan track team by his team-mates. He succeeds Captain Charles DeBaker, who led the Wolverines to the conference title this year.

Ellerby, who will be a senior next year, has won two track letters. He represents Michigan in the quarter mile and relay events.

Charles Parvin, of Owosso, Mich., was named manager of the track team.

Climax Blethen, pitcher, released by the Atlanta club of the Southern association, joined Knoxville and won his first game.

WIN OR QUIT!

If Roger Peckinpaugh, above, manager of the Cleveland Indians, doesn't snap his club out of its slump he can pack up his duds and look elsewhere for a job. Alva Bradley, president of the club, issued that edict to Peck while the team was in the east, losing seven out of eight games to Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

DIAMOND BALL

BALLS BEING STOLEN

Managers of the city diamond-ball teams report that every game finds one or more diamond balls being stolen by youngsters in the crowd. Steps will be taken in future games to guard the balls closely and the culprits are warned that any attempts to steal the diamond balls will be met with prompt action. Several of the thieves have already been spotted and action in their cases is now being pursued.

PRINTERS ROUTED

The Knights of Columbus No. 2 team routed the Printers, 30 to 8, in an Old Timers league game Monday night. The Kaysees scored high, wide and handsome in every inning but the third. Their high run was made in the second with nine tallies.

The score:	R	H	E
Printers	100 012 4—8	9	17
K. C. No. 2	590 466 x—30	22	6

Batteries: Printers, Perryman and Klug; K. C., Winchester and Beaudin.

Umpire: Ed Gunkel.

NUMEROUS MISPLAYS

The Oils played five or no count with the Butchers for several innings and thereby hung up a 19 to 3 victory in a league game yesterday. Both teams were guilty of numerous misplays but the Butchers' errors were the most costly and the Oils coupled them with hits to score runs.

Score by innings:

Oils	5 5 0 5 1 3 0—19 13 7
Butchers	0 0 0 0 0 3 0—3 6 8

Batteries: Nelson and Kuchenberg; Finn, Anderson and Bink.

Umpire: Bill Schram.

INSURORS LOSE

A ten run barrage in the sixth inning enabled the North Stars to defeat the Insurors before a howling crowd in an American league game last night, 14 to 11. The Insurors were leading until the fatal sixth but then they blew up miserably and the eager youngsters hopped on to every advantage. The Insurors attempted a last inning rally which netted them five runs but they weren't sufficient for victory.

Score by innings:

North Stars	0 0 0 4 4 0 T 0 0—14
Insurors	4 0 2 0 0 0 5—11

Batteries: Puckelwartz, Hirn and Johnson; Monson and Engstrom.

Umpires: VanEffen.

SPADS VICTORIOUS

The Spads took the measure of the Ericksteins, 11 to 6, last night although both teams made the same number of hits. The Spads made their nine hits count very effectively while the Ericksteins had men left on bases.

BATTLES KEEP PITCHERS BUSY

New York Takes First 12-7, Then Loses 9-7 to Washington

Washington, May 31 (AP)—In a pair of siege gun battles, in which 12 pitchers worked in vain to stop the smacking of 49 base hits from the bats of the two teams, the Washington Senators today split a doubleheader with the New York Yankees by dropping the second game, 9 to 7, after winning the first, 12 to 7.

The division gave the Yankees a two to one lead for the short series and retained their first place position by three full games. The Nationals clung to second place by a precarious margin.

Washington took the first game by a rousing five run rally in the eighth after coming from behind to tie the score in the previous inning. Each team was forced to throw four pitchers into the battle.

In the second game, the Yankees' big guns opened up an eight run lead in the first two innings. Herb Pennock performed th unusual for the day by lasting the route, but he was hard pressed as the Senators kept pecking away, scoring five runs in the last three frames.

Eleven extra-base hits boomed out in the first game, topped by Lazzeri's homer, while the second contest brought forth a homer by Manager Joe Cronin, a three bagger and a double by Ruth, and four other two basers.

Lefty Gomez was the victim of Washington's five run winning attack in the late innings of the first game. Errors put two Nats on the paths and after the bases were filled by a walk, singles by Manush and Goslin and a double by Cronin completed the work. Cronin's double was made off Brown, who relieved Gomez.

Monte Weaver was made the goat of the Yankee attack at the outset of the second game. He yielded three runs in the first and when the attack against him continued in the next, Russell relieved him, but between them they yielded five run to put the game out of reach.

BYRNS HAD TO USE THE WHIP

Demo House Leadership Narrowly Escapes Disaster

BY KIRKE SIMPSON

Washington — Democratic house leadership escaped disaster so narrowly on the rigid rule under which the administration's industrial control bill was handled that the fact is worthy of special attention.

But for the most drastic whip-cracking by Majority Leader Byrns, a one-vote margin, or even actual defeat, on procedure might have been the lot of this last and perhaps most important part of the White House emergency economic program.

That might seem to indicate a waning of the extraordinary influence of President Roosevelt. As a matter of fact, however, the nearly successful revolt against the rule on the Democratic side centered around the taxation section of the three-way act, the only section not drawn under presidential approval, but left to the discretion of congress itself.

Many elements entered into the negative vote. There was solid Republican opposition to the rule.

Some Democrats, not a great many, opposed the idea of a temporary industrial dictatorship. A handful shared the views of Representative Beck of Pennsylvania, big gun of Republican opposition to the bill, which had to do with constitutional questions.

Partisans of the 30-hour-week labor bill, side-tracked to make way for the control measure, were among the "noes." A considerable number, chiefly southerners, who oppose suspension of anti-trust laws, also bolted.

Battle Around Income Tax

When all was said and done, however, it was the income tax increase proposals, touching only normal, "middle man," brackets, worked out by the ways and means committee, which aroused most opposition.

And that had been fanned to a far more intense fire by the testimony the preceding day before a senate committee that J. P. Morgan and his partners had escaped all income tax since 1929 through capital loss deductions.

Whether President Roosevelt sensed the situation in advance when he yielded to house party leadership and withheld any recommendation as to the sources of new revenue to finance the three billion dollar recovery project did not appear.

President Still Powerful

The close vote in the house actually emphasized anew the president's dominant power "on the hill."

It also forecast that the final new tax program would be written in conference between house and senate and might even include a sales tax.

That White House pressure could drive such a tax through was generally admitted, yet the political fate of high ranking Democrats like Doughton of North Carolina, who led the anti-sales tax house battle last session, might be sealed by such a development.

Stone Hurling Is Great Pastime Here

Bombay (AP)—The village of Dhami in the Himalayas has just held its annual game of hurling stones, and a "satisfactory number of people were injured."

The male inhabitants once a year form rival parties and stand at a distance of 100 yards on the stoning ground. Women, gaily dressed, and crowds from the mountains come down to cheer.

Towards evening the ruler of the state arrives and the game starts. Each side is allowed to pick up rocks of any size and throw them at its opponents. Most of the rocks miss their mark, but when a satisfactory number of players have been injured the ruler stops the game.

The contest has come down through centuries, the atonement for the death of a Brahmin who was murdered hundreds of years ago.

Oklahoman Collects Bells

Muskogee, Okla. (AP)—Grant Foreman, Muskogee historian and traveler, has assembled an odd collection of bells from the corners of the earth. An elephant bell from India, a temple bell from Sumatra, one from a buffalo in Java and other bells from Egypt and China are included.

HIGHWAY WORK WILL CONTINUE

County Has No Word Regarding Relief Funds for June

Although no word has been received as to whether there will be any funds made available in June, the R. F. C. work relief projects in Delta county will continue until past welfare credits are worked off, R. F. Mason, county highway engineer, stated yesterday.

About one thousand men are employed in highway work. The sum of $12,000 of R. F. C. funds was released to Delta county for the period May 19 to 31, but there is no information as yet as to whether any funds will be received for June.

It is understood that the $12,000, recently released, is the last allotment to this or any other county in the state under the R. F. C. plan, inasmuch as these funds are now exhausted. The remainder of the loan applications covering June, the second month of the third loan period, will be referred to the new emergency relief administrator under the half-billion dollar congressional act.

Harris Teachers Given Same Pay Next School Year

Harris, Mich., May 21 (Special)—The Harris board of education has decided to maintain the salary schedule of its teachers at its present level. In spite of the fact that many boards of education have already brought about drastic cuts in teachers wages and have closed schools temporarily, the Harris board of education deemed it unwise to subject its teachers to unfair wage cuts which eventually would do great harm to the present school system. The average salary of the teachers of Harris township, exclusive of the office of superintendent, is $747.

Board Accepts Resolution

The Board of Education has accepted a resolution which was presented to them by the present corps of teachers. The resolution, signed by all the teachers, is as follows:

TO THE HARRIS BOARD OF EDUCATION:

WHEREAS, The present existing financial conditions of most schools in the State of Michigan bear conclusive evidence that even after drastic economies have been made in all departments of education that state aid must be forthcoming to insure a minimum program of education for the school year of 1933-34 in the schools in Harris township.

WHEREAS, The source and the amount of revenue to be received by the said Board for defraying the expense of the said schools for the year of 1933-34 is indefinite.

WHEREAS, Inadequate revenue for the school year of 1933-34 threatens to shorten the regular school term of nine months.

WHEREAS, A school year of less than nine months shall be detrimental to the welfare of all the school children in the schools of said township.

WHEREAS, Co-operation between the said board and the teachers of said township is indispensable and of mutual benefit.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT: All teachers of Harris township shall teach the schools of said township the entire school term of nine months even after funds are not available.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT: The salary schedule of 1932-33 be maintained for the school year of 1933-34 and be paid in nine allotments at the close of each school month as long as funds are available by the said board.

Morgan Records Put Woodin Again In the Limelight

BY KIRKE SIMPSON

Washington—One of the most surprising names in the Roosevelt cabinet list when it came out was that of William H. Woodin, treasury secretary.

The whole gamut of speculation never turned him up for that job until the very last. In this case Mr. Roosevelt's pre-inauguration challenge to press speculators that they would find themselves 80 per cent wrong about his cabinet selections was more than justified. They were 100 per cent wrong.

So the cheerful, bubbling, happy little industrialist with the flair for musical composition came down to Washington to bump into the bank smash head on. He was the busiest person in Washington except the president those first days. It all but wore him out. It did send him to bed for a time.

There can be no real question that Mr. Roosevelt's handling of that banking crisis was the springboard that alone made possible much of the swift development that followed, showing him a virtual emergency dictator by popular will.

Without that dramatic start on "the new deal," it might have shaped up in far different fashion.

Resignation Rumors

Mr. Woodin figured in all that. Yet hints of his impending resignation began to be published. They became so important that Woodin twice took special pains to deny them, once calling news writers to his sick room for that purpose.

No very clear statement of the reasons which might have prompted his resignation were given. True, he was at odds with Senator Glass over the bank bill, but that did not seem a serious enough matter to set up resignation rumors.

Then along came the House of Morgan hearing and the disclosure that Woodin's name was on the Morgan "insider" list of favored friends a while back. He got in at ground floor prices, a very old Wall street custom.

That was long before he or anybody else could possibly have thought of a public life career for him; but there it was.

The impression the Bystander got was that somebody who knew of that insider list and what names were on it might have been responsible for the original Woodin resignation rumors.

Republicans in senate and house leaped on the chance which publication of the names of the Morgan insiders gave. Robinson of Indiana, waging his lone-handed warfare in the senate, and Britten of Illinois in the house, shouted for the resignation of Woodin, Norman H. Davis and other Morgan favorites.

Planned Short Stay

Mr. Woodin is credited with having planned to stay only a year or so when he accepted the treasury job. He is not young and it is a wearing task.

In the face of what has occurred, however, it would be surprising if Mr. Roosevelt would assent to Woodin's early retirement.
